ITALY DECLARES WAR

FRENCH MAKE LAST-DITCH STAND

Fight Grimly to Stave Off Nazi Drive on Paris

Germans Throw Reserve Forces Into Mighty Offensive That Forges Ahead Despite Terrific Toll Exacted by Defenders.

BULLETIN

PARIS — (UP) — Germany, throwing 1,500,000 men and 4,000 tanks into the battle of France, today was reported to have broken through defense lines of the Seine, the Oise and the Aisne, moved on toward the Marne and thrust a spearhead within 25 or 30 miles of Paris.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (AP) — Reuters, British news agency, reported tonight that Paris had been placed in a state of defense.

The agency said the permanent staffs of ministers were removed yesterday and today to the provinces. The heads of the government, it said, remain in the French capital.

(By United Press)

PARIS—The French army, with every man in it knowing that his country's fate was at stake, fought grimly today against a German attack into which Adolf Hitler threw 100 infantry divisions, totaling 1,500,000 men, and eight armored divisions with 4,000 tanks.

Across France from the English channel to the Argonne forest, ever closer to Paris, the German army, its reserves now thrown into battle, smashed at the French line with the terrific force of a war machine that the Nazis had been building for seven years against "The Day."

Gen. Maxime Weygand, studying battle maps at his headquarters, waiting for some opportunity to strike back, urged every officer and man to stand at his post.

The war office communique this morning, No. 561 of the war, was eloquently brief:

"From the sea to the Argonne the battle continues more and more violently."

As eloquent was the cancellation of the customary morning war office conference with newspaper correspondents.

All that the country knew was that the battle of France had entered its critical phase and that the pick of its men was in the battle line taking a price

SURRENDER: Norse Lay Down Arms, Allies Leave Narvik

(By United Press)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Capitulation of the Norwegian army and withdrawal of Allied forces from Narvik, the great iron ore port, left Germany unchallenged today along the entire Norwegian coast and put her in position to dominate Russia's Arctic trade route.

It was made known that Gen. C. G. Fleischer, commander-in-chief of the Norwegian forces in the north, had ordered his men to surrender after King Haakon, Crown Prince Olav and members of the Norwegian government had been embarked in Allied warships.

Diplomatic sources here asserted that the king, the crown prince and the others had embarked several days ago and belief was expressed that they had arrived in Great Britain.

Part of the Norwegian forces have been withdrawn from Norway, the ministry said, so that they could be reformed "for action on other fronts."

It was understood that the port of Narvik had been rendered useless for at least one year.

The number of Allied troops in the Narvik area was never announced but it was known they included some of the finest British and French forces.

PRESIDENT TO MAKE MAJOR TALK TONIGHT

Vital Pronouncements About War in Europe Scheduled in Broadcast at 6:15 P. M.

DETAILS KEPT SECRET

Congress Pushes Plans For Expanding Defenses on Nation Today.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house military affairs committee was reported authoritatively to have approved a bill increasing the authorized strength of the regular army to 400,000.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt will discuss the European war and international relations early this evening in a hastily-planned address at the University of Virginia's commencement exercises.

Stephen Early, a White House secretary who made the announcement unexpectedly at midnight, described the speech as a "very important pronouncement."

No hint was given as to its details, but there was speculation here that the president might touch on the administration's policy of making military equipmen. available to the Allies.

Major broadcasting companies were invited to carry the address throughout the United States from 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. (EST) and it will be broadcast internationally in seven languages.

The president long ago had expressed the hope that he could attend the university's graduation program at Charlottesville, Va., because his son, Franklin D., jr., is completing the law course. He withheld a definite promise until the last minute, however, in view of the rapidly shifting European situation.

Mr. Roosevelt began writing his speech while on a week-end yacht trip down the Potomac, from which he returned yesterday afternoon. Accompaning him on the cruise were Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Alexander

SLAYER FREED

Gangster Who Killed Chicago Reporter Leaves Pen.

JOLIET, Ill. — (U.P.) — Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis hoodlum of the Al Capone era, leaves state prison today after serving nine years for the slaying of Alfred J. (Jake) Lingle, Chicago newspaper reporter, which started the decline of prohibition period gangsterism.

Brothers was sentenced to prison for 14 years, but time off for good behavior made possible his earlier release.

His freedom may be short, however, because two St. Louis detectives will meet him at the prison gates to return him for trial on charges that he killed John DeBlaise during a service car drivers' dispute in 1929.

Lingle was slain June 9, 1930, in a railroad station passageway.

MRS. JASTER NAMED

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Mrs. Mildred R. Jaster, Cleveland, Ohio Democratic national committeewoman, today was appointed a member of the arrangements committee for the party's national convention opening in Chicago, July 15.

Throws Weight With Hitler

Asserting that Italy's "hour of destiny" has arrived, Premier Benito Mussolini today declared war on France and Great Britain, joining his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, in warring on the Allies.

3 ACCUSED OF ILLEGAL ENTRY

Trio Arrested in Mansfield Face Deportation; Two of Them Deported Before.

Three persons arrested in Mansfield were held by immigration authorities in Youngstown today on charges of illegal entry to the United States.

They were identified by government inspectors as George Mikaelels, 36, of 68 Harker street; Stefan Kiriacides, 39, of 19 Spring street, and Varela Ignacio, 35, a transient.

Mikaelels and Ignacio are held in the Mahoning county jail and Kiriacides was released after posting $500 bond. All three are to be given hearings in Youngstown within the next two weeks.

Immigration officers who were in Mansfield last week said they arrested Mikaelels and Kiriacides and that Ignacio was turned over to them by city police who had picked him up for intoxication.

Ignacio, they said, had been twice previously deported to Mexico, and that he faced prosecution at the Mexican port of entry following his hearing in Youngstown.

CROPS DAMAGED BY CLOUDBURST

Southern Richland County Hit By Torrential Rain; Creeks Flooded, Roads Washed Out.

A cloudburst that hit southern Richland county late yesterday, centering in the Bellville area, caused heavy damage to crops and roads and climaxed a series of rain and electrical storms that swept through the county over the week-end.

The torrential rain struck Bellville shortly before 7 p. m. yesterday and within a few minutes streets and sidewalks were flooded and gardens and cultivated fields were miniature lakes.

Gravel roads in the southern part of the county were badly damaged and creeks overflowed their banks soon after the rain began to fall. It was estimated that the rainfall measured more than an inch during the storm.

YALE PROFESSOR DIES

BOSTON—(AP)—Professor J. G. De Barenne, 55, sterling professor of physiology at Yale university since 1930, died here Sunday night.

11 Meet Violent Deaths in Ohio Mishaps, 4 Hurt Here

While at least 11 persons met violent deaths in Ohio, Mansfield and Richland county again escaped fatal accidents over the week-end.

Four youths were injured, none seriously, in two minor accidents reported near Mansfield early today and last evening, according to General hospital reports. Two of the youths are confined to the hospital and two received treatment there.

In the hospital are Joe Hoff, 20, North Main street road, being held for observation, and Howard Wise, 11, of 18 Flint street, who received lacerations of the forehead, right eye and scalp wounds.

Hoff was injured when an automobile in which he and Martin Kissel, 24, R. D. 4, Mansfield, were riding, ran into a ditch on the North Main street road at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, according to hospital attendants. Kissel was treated for minor lacerations. Wise was injured when the car in which he and Wayne Baker, 17, of Shelby, were riding, ran into a ditch at about midnight last night on a county road near the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate com-

Mussolini Takes His Nation Into Conflict On Germany's Side

'Our Hour of Destiny is Here' Shouts Il Duce, Sending Armed Might of Country Against France, Great Britain; Premier Terms Them 'Decrepit,' Calls For Share of Their Riches.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(INS)—Using Nazi Germany's own-famed "blitzkrieg tactics," the Italian army smashed across the French frontier into the Riviera tonight, 15 minutes after Premier Mussolini announced a declaration of war against Great Britain and France. Military information made public in Berlin stated that the Italian invasion was carried out directly into France and not through Switzerland.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Secretary of State Hull declared today that Italy's entrance into the war was a great human tragedy which would prove a disappointment to people everywhere.

(By United Press)

ROME—Premier Benito Mussolini took Italy into the European war today on the side of Germany.

The declaration of war against Great Britain and France was announced by the premier in a speech from Venice palace balcony to a wildly cheering crowd.

"The hour of destiny has arrived for our fatherland," Mussolini said. "We are going to war against the decrepit democracies . . . to break the chains that tie us in the Mediterranean."

The premier, speaking in a strained, powerful voice to perhaps 80,000 persons in the Venice palace square and side streets and to millions throughout Italy and the world, said that there is but one watchword for Fascists:

"It is to win!"

"We salute the fuehrer of Germany," he added. "Fascist Italy is on her feet and prepared to strike."

The premier, who once said that Italy had 10,000,000 bayonets ready for action, declared that "this gigantic struggle is a logical part in our revolution."

"This revolution," he continued, "asserts itself against those who control the riches of the earth.

"It is a struggle of one century against another."

"We take up arms to solve the problems of our continental frontiers and our maritime frontiers," the premier said.

"We shall win and we shall give a long period of peace and prosperity to Italy and the world.

"People of Italy: To arms!

"Your tenacity, bravery and courage will prevail."

The premier announced that the ambassadors of Britain and France had been informed of the declaration of war.

RELIEF PARLEY

Gov. Bricker Calls Officials to Study Problem.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Gov. John W. Bricker held further conferences today with relief officials on which will hinge his decision whether to call the legislature into special session.

The governor's decision was expected to be announced not later than tomorrow for he has indicated that if a special session is held it will come before the Republican national convention, opening in Philadelphia two weeks from today.

Other matters considered certain to come before a special session were separation of the national and state election ballots and amendment of present old age pension laws.

BLOW TO BRITISH

Aircraft Carrier Glorious, 2 Destroyers Lost, London Says.

LONDON—(U.P.)—The admiralty today announced one of the most severe losses of the war—the presumed sinking of the 22,500-ton aircraft carrier, Glorious, and an escort of two destroyers, the transport Orama, and the tanker, Oil Pioneer—a total of 50,706 ton of shipping.

Hands Off Balkan Countries, Mussolini Guarantees

LONDON —(UP)— Exchange Telegraph in a dispatch from Rome today said that Premier Benito Mussolini, announcing Italy's entry into the war, had guaranteed the integrity of Jugoslavia and Greece.

Bullitt Gives News to President

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Ambassador William C. Bullitt telephoned President Roosevelt from Paris at 11:53 a. m. (EST) that Italy had declared war on France.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early made the announcement of Bullitt's trans-Atlantic call.

Early said that Mr. Roosevelt would go to Charlottesville, Va., to speak this evening as planned, but that the proposed trip from there to Hyde Park, N. Y., had been cancelled.

London Takes it Calmly

LONDON—(UP)—Italy's entry into the war was received calmly in London today because the British had long expected and prepared for it.

Youthful Crushes Need Sympathy

By CARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

YOUR SON or daughter, as early as the age of 12 or 14, may suddenly take on behavior which to you seems very strange. He or she may lose the usual interests, even lose appetite and grow dreamy or morbid.

A boy and girl so young, or later in their teens, may be so attracted to each other as to strive to be together as much as possible or permissible, walking side by side to and from school, through the halls at school, going together to the movies. Both may seem to be infatuated with the other, or just one of the two may have the experience all alone in the mind and heart. Indeed, the one with the most violent love interest in another might avoid the other or try to seem to do so.

Unwise adults are inclined to make fun of these youngsters enraptured in their early romances. Some parents may forbid, or try to forbid, their being together, telling them they are too young to be so "serious and silly, being only babies still." Whether with a pair so young or with one older, the more the parents fuss about the case or try to break it up by their commands, the more they, as a rule, fire the mutual desire of the two to be together. Wise parents sit calmly, patiently, sympathetically on the sidelines.

Parents looking ahead while their son or daughter is quite young might build up ways and means of rendering these very early "heart cases" less likely and violent, by cultivating in the child wide interest in many playmates and enjoyment of them during his early childhood, and increasing his mingling with many boys and girls just before and during early adolescence.

Ideally, the boy has "dates" with a number of girls, the girl with a number of boys, during the teens. It is possible for parents to influence the youngster early that this is a desirable objective in his social development.

Early "regular dates" have the disadvantage of limiting social adaptation and enrichment of the youths involved; of rendering them selfish and less likable to others outside themselves; of leading often to the selection of a life mate from a very limited range; and of marriage unduly early, perhaps, and consequent hampering of the education and vocational preparation of one or both of the youths.

"How may be know we are really in love?" is often asked in a high school forum. One good test is the probable degree to which each motivates the other to be less selfish and to struggle harder to attain long-cherished ideals; and how sure you are you will continue to be in love 20 or 30 years hence. But how is one supposed to reason when it all is so much a matter of the emotions? Perhaps the only time a youth or anybody else can reason clearly on this subject, if at all, is when he has no awareness of being in love.

A list of books on marriage, education and preparation of marriage and how to make a go of it may be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Crestline Eagles Auxiliary Holds Installation Rites

Preceding the regular meeting and installation of the Eagles Auxiliary the degree team of the Shelby Eagles put on a fancy drill as a return compliment previously extended by the degree team of the local auxiliary.

Officers and guards of the Eagles Auxiliary from Willard then had charge of the opening ceremony after which Crestline officers took charge for business and installation. Mrs. O. P. Tracht presiding.

Mrs. Adelaide Thomas, past president of Willard assisted by the Willard guard team and conductor had charge of the installation. Following the installation Mrs. Glen Caldwell and Mrs. Poole presented the installing officer Mrs. Thomas with a gift and the outgoing president Mrs. Tracht with a past president's pin. The newly installed officers had charge of the closing ceremony after which bingo was played and a lunch served.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

The ugly word which Philip Veritzen had just pronounced seemed to hover in the air as I frantically wondered if it contained another menace to Mary's continuance in the leading role of my play.

Was he going to make Mary's position as his son's wife an excuse for depriving her of her chance, despite the magnificent rendition she had just given of her role?

My former employer was too artistic — and — too cunning — I told myself, to use that excuse for the destruction of Mary's hopes. He had given the role to Mary after she was Noel's wife. It would be too crass for him to reconsider his decision on that ground alone.

"Never, until the present occasion," Philip Veritzen went on slowly, "has any relative of mine appeared in any production bearing my name. But, before my son ever had met the talented young woman who now bears his name" —he inclined his head in a courtly little gesture to Mary, "I had had my attention called to her gifts, and had predicted a great career for her.

"Then—other things intervened," he said and paused, his eyes stern and somber. I caught my breath in terror at a fantastic conjecture which I knew Mary was sharing. Was it possible that he meant to bring out here, before us all — before Olina and Olga especially, that old secret, known to the rest of us, of Mary's escapade as the masked dancer in a night club while she was in training under Philip Veritzen?

That night club was where Noel, playing there as violinist, had first seen Mary, loved her, and saved her from the plot concocted by Grace Draper and Jack Leslie, to give her into Jack's custody. Philip Veritzen apparently had forgiven and forgotten the episode years before, but I knew that no memory was more tenacious than his, knew also his ability to twist almost any circumstance to his own uses.

The next second, however, I knew that I need have no fear on this particular score, for when the great producer went on, he made no reference to that long past time.

"There is no need to bore you with past history," he said. "Suffice it to say that when my son's wife took up this role, I was satisfied as to her dramatic gifts, but—I did not know if she had the other qualifications which I demand of my people."

"To have great dramatic ability is not enough for a stellar role. A great actress must be a trouper in every sense of the word. She must be prepared to give implicit obedience to the person responsible for her, she must be ready to endure any hardship or humiliation without question, and to show no resentment or perturbation when she is unpleasantly surprised with such conditions.

"In the case of my son's wife," he went on, "I prepared an unusually severe set of tests. I wanted no one to be able to say —I did not want to have to say to myself—that her relationship to me had prompted consideration which a stranger would not have had.

"I devised many small and annoying tests," he said, "over which she triumphed easily. And then, I determined on a course which I never would have dared to try on a stranger for fear of catastrophe, a test to which I never would have dared to submit my son's wife had I not counted on Mrs. Graham's brilliant co-operation."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, June 11.

UNDER a varied and vivid chain of highly stimulated astral forces this should prove to be a day of outstanding accomplishments and unforgettable experiences. Every department of life will respond to an expansive urge to do things in "a big way," brilliant, buoyant and magnificent. High stakes are at issue and high-pressure tactics may have expediency, subtlety and shrewdness as factors. This may involve a complete reversal of programs, with change of associates, environs and objectives, and this holds some very definite hazards in dramatic reversals. But if speculative moves be sagaciously managed the ends may justify the means.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of great aims and lofty ambitions, with the energies and emotions expansive, high powered and indomitable, although subject to shrewd acumen, crafty measures, the cooperation of influential personages, both business and social. This applies to sudden changes of plans and surroundings, with speculation and chance offering either unforeseen defeats or highly gratifying achievements. It seems a matter of keen insight and sound decisions in reaching cherished goals and personal gratifications.

A child born on this day should have splendid talents and ambitions, with energy, industry and expansive ideas combining to build its fortunes and enhance personal prestige, despite sudden strokes or reversals.

Garden Graph

WIGWAMS FOR POLE BEANS.

Pole beans are more popular with many gardeners than bush beans, due to the fact that they yield more heavily and for a longer season.

If pole beans are planted where high winds can sweep them, then they need more support than the usual method, as single poles are apt to topple over easily.

A wigwam, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, will hold up the bean vines even in strong winds and storms. Erection of this type of wigwam is simple: arrange four bamboo poles firmly in the ground, as illustrated, and fasten them together at the top with wire or strong string. Plant the beans at the bottom of each pole.

Vines should be tied as soon as they show signs of climbing. As a rule beans climb counterclockwise. As soon as the beans reach the top of the poles, but back the tip of each shoot. This throws all the plant energy into forming beans, rather than encouraging further growth of foliage.

When you make raisin muffins, rub the raisins with glycerine. They will cook as whole raisins and those at the top or bottom of the muffins do not burn.

If you use waxed paper under your cakes and pies, rubbing the paper first with a little glycerine will help prevent the paper from sticking.

Feeling Superior Causes Strife

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sometimes when letters come to this column, I would give a good deal to know the other side of the case. Writing under the spur of what they regard as just anger, persons state only their side of the case, and state it sometimes all too well. What would the other fellow have to say in his behalf?

Here is a woman writing to me that her husband is "mean" to her for no reason at all but that he knows she is "superior." However, as this man pays all the household expenses and gives her an allowance as well, and doesn't object when her mother and other in-laws come to visit, it seems to me that he's a pretty good sort of husband.

She doesn't tell me in what her superiority consists. But be that as it may, she has a conviction that it was this superiority which made them quarrel during their two-year engagement.

She would get so angry she would return his ring, and after a few weeks he'd come crawling back with it. She'd return it again. Back and forth it would go, like a ball over a tennis net. So they were married. They quarreled on their honeymoon. He wanted to go to Niagara, because his mother and father had gone there and lived happily ever after. Poor man, he must have thought everlasting balm was to be found in listening to the raging waterfall. But she would have none of Niagara and insisted on Atlantic City.

When they returned home from Atlantic City, they set up housekeeping. They now have two children, but that only seems to raise more argument. He claims she raises them out of books, and says his mother raised him with love and understanding.

They had a sudden shock the other day, when they overheard their five-year-old daughter and six-year-old son, playing mother and father, quarreling horribly, even to the extent of using cuss words. This held the mirror up to their unhappy domestic life, as nothing else would have done, the lady wrote to me. I hoped I might get a letter from the husband, but haven't.

I'm afraid the worm in the peach is that the wife lets herself feel superior. The obvious suggestion is the lady must conquer this attitude, even if she writes splendid club papers and her ancestors came over in the Mayflower. I'm hazarding these two guesses, as she hasn't confessed in what the superiority consists, and why her husband resents her for having it.

I hope if this reaches the husband's eye, he'll send me his side of the story, for in these days of bitter economic struggle a man who pays all the household expenses and adequately supports his wife strikes me as having a good deal of superiority on his side of the argument.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT ARE THE ODDS?

WHEN THE first three players have passed, you know your side has an absolutely certain defense against losing any points on the deal. That is by merely passing. There is no excuse, then, for bidding unless the chances favor your side getting a plus score. If you hold an absolutely average hand in all respects, including both your share of high cards and your share of distributional values, the odds are about even. Your partner figures to have about an average hand, and the two opponents between them to have about a total of two average hands.

5. ♠Q 10 6 4 ♥J 9 5 3 ♦K 8 7 ♣A 2

6. ♠Q 10 6 4 3 ♥J 9 5 ♦K 8 7 ♣A 2

Though these hands are exactly average in high-card strength, there are some good match-point players who would favor opening the bidding, fourth hand, with No 1, because it contains a slight majority of major suit cards, but would pass No. 2, because its major suit cards are barely in the minority. They would say the chances are about 51 to 49 in favor of your side getting a plus score rather than a minus More thorough mathematicians would say neither hand contains its share of distributional values, meaning suit-length equal to or better than held in the average hand.

3. ♠K Q 8 5 3 ♥A 10 7 4 2 ♦9 6 ♣2

4. ♠2 ♥9 6 ♦K Q 8 5 3 ♣A 10 7 4 2

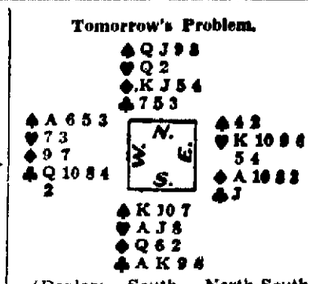
Both of these hands are above average in distributional value, though each is a jack weaker than average in high card strength. At both duplicate and rubber bridge practically all fine players would open No. 3. They would pass No. 4, which is exactly the same except that the long suits are minors, for the reason that the opponents surely hold the predominance of major suit length and so should be able safely to outbid your side or push you beyond your depth.

1. ♠Q 10 6 4 ♥J 9 5 ♦K 8 7 ♣A 3 2

2. ♠A 3 2 ♥J 9 5 ♦K 8 7 ♣Q 10 6 4

Here are two more exact average hands, but with at least average distributional value, mainly in the majors. Match-point duplicate players who are students of fine points would generally bid these, though very few rubber players of keen ability would. If, however, the biddable suits were minors, all fine players would pass them at all times.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

If West leads the 7 of his partner's heart suit and on dummy's 2 East plays the 9 why should declarer play the 8 instead of the J?

As Pilots Brought New Planes to Airport

Shown in the photograph above are the two new airplanes that arrived at the municipal airport yesterday afternoon following a flight from the factory at Trenton, N. J., during which the pilots battled their way through a storm which moved eastward after sweeping across central Ohio. Below is Howard O'Dell, left, H. V. Anderson, Duluth, Minn., and Paul Gimbel, congratulating each other on their arrival at the port. They had become separated in a cloud bank while a third plane, piloted by Tom Jones and Robert Miller of the Chamber of Commerce as passenger, set down at Rural Valley, Pa. Jones and Miller returned to Mansfield by automobile.

FIGHT STORMS, ARRIVE SAFELY

Mansfield Pilots Bring New Plane to City, One Delayed By Inclement Weather.

Three Mansfield pilots and a passenger were back home today following a plane flight from Trenton, N. J. during which they battled their way through a storm for nearly 12 hours—the same storm that dumped more than an inch of rain on central Ohio Saturday night and early Sunday.

One of the three new ships being flown from the Luscombe factory is still in western Pennsylvania. The pilot landed it in a hay field when he saw the approaching storm and returned to Mansfield by automobile.

The pilots who made the trip were Paul Gimbel and Howard O'Dell in one plane and H. V. Anderson of Duluth, Minn. in another. They arrived at municipal airport yesterday noon.

Tom Jones and his passengers, Robert Miller, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, returned by automobile from Rural Valley, Pa., about 40 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

The party had gone to the factory at Trenton Saturday to bring two new ships back to Mansfield. Anderson, enroute to Duluth, accompanied them to Mansfield.

The three ships left Trenton Saturday afternoon. A faulty compass took them off their course and they landed at the new municipal airport in Harrisburg, Pa., where they spent the night.

Leaving Harrisburg at daybreak yesterday they made their way west flying into the stormy weather in the mountains—a section of Pennsylvania known as the "pilot's graveyard."

Jones set down in a hay field and after a deluge that lasted several hours was unable to get the plane out of the mud. He staked the machine down. Mrs. Jones went after her husband and Miller in her automobile. They got back to Mansfield last night.

Meanwhile Gimbel and O'Dell and Anderson battled their way through the stormy weather, one plane stopping at Pittsburgh and the other at Greensburg. None of the ships were equipped with instruments for blind flying and the pilots depended solely on their compasses in flying their course.

Without seeing each other for several hours, both planes emerged from the clouds south of Canton and arrived in Mansfield together. Anderson who spent the night here was to take off today for his home.

With a record number of students on the field, Russell Gledhill, of Galion, who has more than 1,600 hours in the air has been obtained by "Bud" Harrington, airport manager, to assist in student instruction.

* * *

The nine youths and lone girl who make up the government class are well on their way toward making their first solo flights. Having completed their fundamental work, all 10 spent Saturday and Sunday practicing landings and takeoffs under Harrington's supervision.

* * *

Several youths, including some of the boys who completed the CAA ground school course several weeks ago but failed to rank among the top 10 selected for flight training are organizing a club at the port and hope to purchase their own plane.

With nine memberships already obtained, they hope to get six more fellows in the club. By furnishing $100 each they plan to purchase an Arconca trainer and take flying lessons.

Those already signed up are Robert Stewart, Dean Gallayher, Philip Stier, Royal S. Copeland, Carl Stough, Carl Culler, John Traifogl, Robert Rhodes and Harold Dickson.

Add to the new students enrolled at the field Raymond Eiche and Donald Bookwalter, both of whom took their first instruction the past week.

* * *

If plans by the CAA go through for installing a radio beam at the Hayesville emergency field it's going to mean a lot to Mansfield fliers.

A proposal now being studied by the government calls for a four-leg beam, one to Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Columbus and Fort Wayne, the latter passing directly over the Mansfield airport.

It would mean that fliers in radio-equipped ships could then fly out of Mansfield on the "beam" to any large city in the country.

Cincinnati was settled in 1788.

Six Members Of Non-Saluting Cult Jailed In Shooting

CROWD BURNS HEADQUARTERS AFTER ATTACK

Shotgun Charges Strike Two Youths as They Stop Car In Front of Hall.

(By United Press)

KENNEBUNK, Me.—Six members of a cult that refuses to salute the American flag faced arraignment today for the wounding of two men with a shotgun. As a result of the shooting a crowd had burned the cult's headquarters and stoned two other structures.

Two other cult members were beaten Saturday at Sanford.

The arrested men said they belonged to Jehovah's Witnesses, a group denying homage to any but religious symbols. Taken to Alfred jail for their own protection, they were to be arraigned in Kennebunkport on murderous assault charges.

The six men gave their names as Edwin Robb of West Chester, Pa., cult leader, and Benjamin Graves and Richard Trask, both of Kennebunk, Carroll Madson and Joseph Leathers, both of Portland, and Fayette Snowdale of Biddeford.

The victims of the shooting were Dwight Robinson, 24, and Frederick McDonald, 22, both of Kennebunk. They were wounded in the legs and hips when they stopped their automobile in front of the sect's headquarters while reportedly en route home from a dance.

Two companions, Everett Nadeau jr., 19, and aRlph Le Barge, 23, ran to a nearby home. Robinson and McDonald were taken to a hospital and Robinson was reported in critical condition after 28 pellets were taken from his body.

The two Sanford cult members held in protective custody, were listed as Frederick J. Whitzel of Decatur, Ala., and Lloyd S. Stull of Chloe, W. Va. They were rescued by police as a crowd of about 500 ransacked their headquarters Saturday night after the pair allegedly refused to salute the flag.

Police said the cult members, fearing a raid like that at Sanford, had barricaded themselves in the headquarters, a cottage rented by Robb. When the auto halted, the witnesses allegedly became frightened and fired. Nadeau told police he and his companions did not intend to molest the cult members.

Leathers, arrested at Portland later with Madson, said threats of attack on the building had circulated in Kennebunk and that several automobiles had been cruising near the house.

Six shotguns and two rifles were seized at the cult headquarters, police said.

Three women cult members were held temporarily at Wells police barracks and then placed on a bus for Portland.

Street Corners of Cleveland Quiet, Newsies on Strike

CLEVELAND—(AP)—There was little shouting of war news on Cleveland street corners this morning.

The Cleveland Newsboys union (AFL) asserting contract demands had been turned down by the city's three major daily newspapers, summoned its members out on strike.

Several thousand youths were affected, Tony Ditto, union president said, reported the organization has 5,000 members.

He asserted the action was taken to enforce a request that carriers in residential areas be included in a contract for the next 12 months. Another point at issue, he said, was in increase from one cent to 1½ cents in the profit from each sale.

ELECT OFFICERS

Officers of the Adario 4-H club, elected at a recent meeting, were announced today by club officials. They are Alvin Miller, president; Howard Wiedler, vice president; James McCammon, secretary-treasurer; David Smith, recreation leader; Gilbert Smith, news reporter, and Morris McCoy, sergeant-at-arms, and Sterling Egner, leader. The next meeting will be held Wednesday at the Adario school.

HURT IN BLAST

Greenwich Man Burned As Gasoline Explodes.

ASHLAND—Treated for burns suffered in a gasoline explosion here Sunday evening, Burnice Wolfe, R. D. 2, Greenwich, was released from Ashland Samaritan hospital this morning.

Wolfe was burned about the arms and legs when some gasoline he was attempting to pour into the carburetor of his automobile, exploded as some of it fell on the engine of the car. The accident happened about 6 p. m.

Case Tests Legality Of 'Bank Nights' Here

Up and Down THE STREET

Locked out of his house and unable to make himself heard above the roar of the storm, a well-known Mansfielder took a good ducking early Sunday morning before he decided to go back downtown and telephone his wife that he was coming home and wanted in. He explained that he forgot his key. The door was locked as "punishment" for not getting home until the wee hours of the morning.

When it comes to getting around James R. "Bud" Harrington probably holds the local record for covering the greatest number of miles in the shortest time. Harrington, instructing students enrolled in the CAA's civilian pilot training course, traveled a distance of 1,600 miles Saturday and Sunday and was never out of sight of the municipal airport.

Mansfield members of the League of Women Voters have received copies of the proposed "planks" for the 1940 platforms of the two political parties, and they really have the appearance of planks. They are printed on paper which looks like natural knotty pine. The two "planks," of course, are the two issues for which the League has been fighting for some time, the extension of civil service to cover all jobs now covered by political patronage, and a tariff which will benefit the country as a whole instead of one that benefits only regions or groups.

Even the youngsters are deeply impressed with the changes that are going on in the world turmoil today, and one of them expressed it neatly last week at commencement exercises at Country Day school. Last year's graduating class had presented the school with a globe and this year's class gave the school a flag. The "presenter" said—and it was original—"Last year's gift has undergone considerable change, but this year's gift is something that will NEVER change!" Which must give every American a lot of encouragement as he remembers the Youth Congress, and its demand for "change" in government.

TROY DISPUTE BEFORE OHIO SUPREME COURT

Decision of High Tribunal Will Apply to Operation of Plan In Mansfield.

The Ohio Supreme court will hear arguments in a case Thursday that may determine whether Ohio motion picture theaters, including three in Mansfield, are violating the state gambling laws by conducting "bank nights."

The high court will review lower court findings in a case involving a "bank night" dispute at Troy, O., where the common pleas and appellate courts held that "bank night" is a gambling scheme and opened the way for city and county authorities to halt its operation.

If the supreme court refuses to review the lower court decisions, it will in effect sustain their judgments and thereby make all "bank night" operators in Ohio liable to prosecution if local authorities want to take action.

It was pointed out, however, that the supreme court's ruling probably will not be handed down until next fall since the court recesses for the summer the day after the Troy case is scheduled for hearing.

The case was appealed by the Troy Amusement company, operator of a theater in the city, which said a high court ruling adverse to the theaters would also open the way for civil suits by patrons for recovery of admission payments entitling them to participate in the drawings.

In the Troy case, as in Mansfield, it was not necessary for the person to be in the theater at the drawing to claim his prize, claiming it within three minutes after his name was drawn.

After hearing the case, the district appeals court at Troy said "bank night" constituted a "scheme of chance" whether or not it can be classed as a lottery.

Theaters in Mansfield, Ashland, Bucyrus, Shelby, Norwalk, Wooster, Delaware, and a number of other Ohio cities are conducting "bank nights" to stimulate business.

LEGION ELECTS

Moose Lodge Group Stages District Meeting Here.

Clayton M. Squires of Norwalk, was elected Great North Moose of the Central Ohio Legion of the Loyal Order of Moose, as that group elected officers at the Moose home here yesterday. Squires succeeds Harvey D. Ulmer of Bucyrus.

Others elected are P. J. Pahl, south Moose; B. E. Dillinger, Bellevue, east Moose; F. G. Unger, Bucyrus, west Moose; Charles Costin, Mansfield, guiding Moose; W. L. McFarland, Marion, custodian, and Roy H. Palmer, New London, argus.

E. A. McFarland of Mansfield, supreme deputy governor, presided during installation exercises for the new officers. About 300 attended the dinner held following the meeting. Dancing was held after the dinner.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Rites for I. Frank Newcomer to Be Held at Funeral Home.

Funeral services for I. Frank Newcomer, who died Saturday afternoon at his home, 516 Bowman street, following a lingering illness, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Finefrock Funeral home. Rev. Henry Ford will be in charge.

He was born in Ashland county, Nov. 8, 1877 and came to Mansfield more than 40 years ago. He formerly operated a garage and automobile sales agency on North Mulberry street, and later moved to a farm north of Mansfield.

Surviving are his wife, one sister, Mrs. Belle Wentland, and several nieces and nephews, all of Mansfield. He was a member of the United Presbyterian church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

FUNERAL TUESDAY

Funeral services for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Sheely of 198 Waring avenue, who died Sunday at birth at General hospital, will be held Tuesday at the grave in Mansfield cemetery. Surviving are the parents; two sisters, Joyce and Jeanette and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sheely of Shelby and Mr. and Mrs. R. Mulvaine of Attica.

SON BORN

GALION—A son, named Roger Larren, was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Farver of Akron. Mrs. Farver was the former Thelma Dill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dill of Galion.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I have nothing against Harry Richman, George M. Cohan, or Maurice Chevalier, but I would like some men to look like Charles Boyer, James Stewart, or Charles Boyer. . . . Next to autograph hunters, I am puzzled by the professional pride of people who use super-unique methods in addressing letters to celebrities. To Thomas E. Dewey's headquarters the other day came a letter from Athol, Mass., the envelope containing no writing whatever—just a picture of an upper lip, featuring the most famous tooth-brush mustache in America.

I suppose the president gets plenty of letters addressed just "F. D. R." and the mailman must bring Mayor LaGuardia occasional missives sent simply to "Butch." . . .

From where I was sitting at "Louisiana Purchase," Zorina's gray dinner dress in the first act was a lot more daring than the red costume with the mesh stockings that got all the publicity. Or else I saw a mirage.

* * *

I love to listen to everybody exchanging recipes for keeping cool. Mine is: Warm shower, iced tea, light murder mystery, Tschaikowsky's concerto. And as an alternate, Radio City Music Hall is not bad. . . . I never owned a Phi Beta Kappa key, never expected to, never hoped to, never cared to. Closest I ever got to one was a Harvard Senior's vest.

I love to watch the furtive hostile glances exchanged by girls who show up at the Stork club or El Morocco wearing identical dresses or hats. It happens often, too.

I'll never forget the night when Marlene Dietrich snaked into Fefe's Monte Carlo looking ravishing in that white hooded numero, only to find a young society woman dancing in exactly the same model dress. Dietrich went out faster than she came in.

* * *

For laughs at the World's Fair, I recommend the Dancing Campus. Thousands of jitterbugs dancing wildly on a platform set in the quadrangle of what used to be the very Shaespearean Olde English Village, and thousands more watching.

When they got rid of Will, they certainly upped the box office receipts! The costumes on the kids indicate some kind of trend: slacks, pajamas, sweaters, low socks, and "gummies"—and while they're Lindy hopping, completely dead pans.

I notice more and more debs wearing colored glasses indoors as well as outdoors. . . . I think the oddest job on Broadway belongs to the man who teaches the customers how to fish in Leone's trout stream. . . . Milton Berle ad libs faster than any comedian I ever saw in action.

* * *

The best roller-skaters among those I've observed at the Rockefeller rink are Irving Berlin, Betty Grable, Judy Garland, Tommy Hitchcock, Diana Barrymore and Fred Astaire. . . .

Worst prediction I can remember in the world of sports was uttered by Eleanor Holm. "My whole career," she wailed when she was dismissed from the Olympics team, "is ruined!"

I thin four minute eggs are vastly superior to the much-touted three-minute eggs. . . . The hardest, most unpleasant, most thankless job in the world must be that of professional gag writer. No wonder most of the good ones die years before they're old.

* * *

This is the weather for a horse drawn cab through Central Park just after dinner. . . . I imagine the G. O. P. convention will be as dramatic as the Kentucky Derby, but I can't figure much excitement for the Democratic pow-wow, which should be more or less of a one-horse race.

I love those little earrings that clip on the ears, but I don't care for the kind that dangle like the chandeliers in the Roxy lobby.

I'm with Sam Goldwyn on the double features—whenever I go to a movie house that shows two pictures, I've either seen one of them, or it has Mickey Rooney in it.

* * *

Goodness! I wonder what Lum Fong's could mean by the "summer chow mein" they're serving? . . . Cutest costume in the night club circuit this week is the gold one Juanita Juarez wears at La Conga . . . Lately people have been beginning more conversations with: "I had the funniest dream last night." Are people doing more dreaming these evenings? Either I don't dream at all or I have dreams that would put the entire 20th Century Fox shooting schedule for 1940 to shame—Indians, blood and thunder, jungle stuff, sea battles, fantasy, and a few ordinary boo-ooh ghosts.

Best bandleaders I ever saw on podiums were E. Duchin and A. Shaw. Most bandleaders aren't very romantic to the eye. But how can a lad look pretty with a saxophone stuck in his mouth?

* * *

Most girls look very silly running . . . I imagine lots of people must get the urge to dive into the Prometheus Pond at Rockefeller Plaza. It it weren't for inhibitions, I guess the attendants would spend every summer day fishing out tourists who just thought it would be a nice way to cool off. . . .

The only three who ever did wade in were the late Huey Long, Zioncheck, and Sharkey the seal.

I never did see what doves and parrots had to do with the strip-tease, but Rosita Royce's preoccupied, ultra-artistic combination of burlesque and bird life always amused me. . . . I'm delighted to hear that at Spivy's La Vache sur le Toit (I can just hear the taxi-drivers saying, "You wanna go somewhere, mister—how about La Vache sur le Toit?") which opens later this month, there will be served a drink that might be described as a Zombie in reverse—only one and a half to a customer. It's called Milque a La Vache—Broadway Francais for just plain Grade A milk and I hope it will teach a lesson to all those people who have been going around making potions out of seven kinds of rum.

URGES 'FIFTH COLUMN' OUSTER

Jenkins Tells Elks' Meeting at Harding Memorial That All Should Be Purged.

(By Associated Press)

MARION — Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton wants "fifth columnists" ferreted out, counted and "liquidated if necessary."

He urged such action yesterday as an estimated 10,000 persons visited the tomb of the late President Warren G. Harding in a pilgrimage arranged by the Ohio Elks association.

Making the principal address, Jenkins also asserted Harding's Americanism, advocacy of peace and opposition to foreign involvements should serve as a guide for the United States in the present world crisis.

The ceremony marked the 50th anniversary of Harding's enrollment in the Elks.

Bert B. Kuhn, secretary of the Mansfield Lodge of Elks, represented the local lodge at the ceremonies, and members from nearby towns also attended.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. YIRGA, 57

Short Illness Causes Death of Mansfield Woman.

Mrs. Mary Yirga, 57, of 98 Harker street, wife of Andrew Yirga, died in Mansfield General hospital this morning after a short illness.

Mrs. Yirga was born Sept. 30, 1882 in Austria, Hungary. Surviving besides her husband are three daughters, Mrs. Robert Swetlick, Mrs. Anton Miller and Rosemary Yirga, and three sons, John, Andrew and Louie, all of Mansfield, and five grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Friends may call at the late home Tuesday.

TESTIFY IN CASE

Sheriff, Steel Official Before Ashland Grand Jury.

Sheriff E. P. Long and A. A. Allen, personnel director of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, were in Ashland today to testify before the county grand jury in a case involving the alleged purchase of stolen property by a Loudonville junk dealer.

The loot included block tin valued at $684 which was stolen from the Empire plant in Mansfield several weeks ago. Four men were convicted of the theft and three are serving terms in the Mansfield reformatory or Ohio penitentiary.

CONVENTION TWO WEEKS OFF, G. O. P. RACE STILL WIDE OPEN

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Although their presidential convention assembles in Philadelphia in two weeks, Republican leaders in congress today asserted that the race for the 1940 G.O.P. nomination is still wide open.

Capitol Hill Republicans believe that Ohio Senator Robert A. Taft will lead on the first ballot with New York Racket-Buster Thomas E. Dewey in close pursuit and Michigan Senator Arthur H. Vendenberg in third place.

But few capitol politicos are predicting the nomination of either Taft or Dewey, even while contending that Taft has gained and Dewey has lost strength since the German invasion of the low countries.

Followers of Taft claim that he will have between 300 and 400 of the 1,000 delegates on the first ballot. Dewey's managers make like claims. If these claims prove to be true, many capitol Republicans predict that the ticket will be Taft and Dewey, one way or the other, but with Taft more likely to be on top due to his greater experience in public affairs.

There are some G.O.P. members of congress who profess that the 1940 outlook is similar to that of 1920, when three leading Republican contenders battered each other into defeat and a "dark horse"—Warren G. Harding—captured the nomination. This group says that Taft, Dewey and Vandenberg occupy the spot held in 1930 by Frank O. Lowden, the late Leonard Wood and Hiram W. Johnson.

They add that the three will deadlock the convention this year as did the other trio in 1920 and that a "dark horse" again will win the nomination.

There is no agreement on Capitol Hill on the identity of the "dark horse."

One thing is certain, if there is a deadlock. It is that Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., (Mass.), house G.O.P. leader, will be given a trial. It is certain because Martin has a tremendous personal following in the house, on the national committee and among state leaders. He was Alf M. Landon's floor manager in the 1936 convention and his eastern manager in that campaign.

Best opinion is that former President Herbert Hoover will also be given a test if there is a deadlock. Hoover will address the convention.

ILL 2 YEARS

C. T. Reid, 66, Dies at Galion; Funeral Wednesday.

GALION—Charles T. Reid, 66, died early today at his home here after an illness of two years.

Mr. Reid was born Nov. 19, 1873 in Bucyrus. Surviving are his wife Virgie; a daughter, Mrs. Herman A. Miller, Worthington; two sons, Richard C. of Middletown and Robert J. of Akron; a brother, Dr. Robert F. Reid of Oceanside, Calif., and two sisters, Mrs. Susan Norton of Sacramento, Calif. and Lois G. Reid of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Snyder funeral home and burial will be in Fairview cemetery. The Masonic and Modern Woodmen of America lodges will assist in the services.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Women In War." Screenplay by F. Hugh Herbert and Doris Anderson. Directed by John H. Auer. Principals: Elsie Janis, Wendy Barrie, Patric Knowles, Mae Clarke, Dorothy Peterson, Barbara Pepper, Billy Gilbert, Dennie Moore, Colin Tapley.

* * *

First 100 percent new World war movie to hit the screen, "Women in War" succeeds in proving, however unintentionally, that women in war should stay home and stop letting their emotions clutter up the front.

These women don't. They're right in the thick of things at a French base hospital. They've come over from England to serve under head nurse Janis and competent assistant Peterson. They do beautiful work here, too, and look nice and professional in their starched uniforms. By the time they're called to active front duty, however, the depredations of a "fifth columnist" named Love have brought things to a pass prettier than most of the participants.

The handsome man in the case is Knowles, R. A. F. officer. He is engaged to Gail (Clarke), but falls for Pamela (Barrie). With the nursing unit taking sides in the issue, Janis gets order to take ambulances under a friendly barrage to a vital sector. Here Love has Gail, driving one of the three mercy wagons with Pamela beside her, do a silly thing. She drives right into the friendly fire.

By the time repentant Gail has died trying to mend her jealous crime, and Janis has risked her life effectively mending it, the ambulances never get where they were going, and the friendly barrage has had to be lifted to save the silly femmes. This is obviously tough on the waiting wounded and a comfort to the enemy.

There is some pretty good war spectacle here—an air raid during a channel crossing, and the barrage fire on the deserted village where the girls are trapped—but most of it is pale beside the horrors of today's newsreels.

Salvage: good work of attractive Wendy; comedy of Gilbert and Dennie Moore; the welcome return of Mae Clarke; the interest attached to a talkie debut of Elsie Janis, once "sweetheart of the A. E. F." whose personality shines through her apparent camera uncertainly only when she imitates a harrumphing English colonel; some bright lines here and there; and, for those who demand one, a plot revealing how mother love, even in war, can regenerate a wayward daughter.

Angaran Beats Fostoria In Mound Debut With Braves

Lawson Little Wins National Open Golf Title

Four years after entering the professional golf ranks with a reputation as the two-time winner of both the American and British amateur titles, Lawson Little, left, captured the U. S. National open golf championship at the Canterbury club course in Cleveland. Here he is being congratulated by Gene Sarazen, right, who was defeated by Little in an 18-hole playoff after the two had finished the scheduled 72-hole tourney in a tie. Standing behind the large trophy which Little received in addition to the $1,000 cash prize is Hal Pierce, president of the United States Golf association. Sarazen, who finished three strokes behind the champion, won the open crown in 1922 and 1932.

BULLETIN

TOLEDO —(AP)— Paul Shank, president of the Ohio State league, today announced the three-day suspension of Catcher Zygmund Olbreys of Fostoria for his belligerent attitude in an Ohio State league game against Mansfield at Fostoria yesterday.

ANGARAN made his debut as a Mansfield Braves pitcher yesterday and turned back the Fostoria Red Birds, 3 to 1, in an Ohio State league contest at Fostoria.

* * *

Mansfield signed the Los Angeles righthander late Saturday in an effort to add pitching strength to the Braves' mound corps and it looks as though the youth will win a berth.

Angaran scattered six hits to the Red Birds, and outside of the ninth frame when they tallied their lone run, never encountered trouble.

Manager Dewey Stover and his warriors trek to Tiffin today to clash with the Mudhens and will return to Fairground park Tuesday to take on the Mudhens in a doubleheader which is scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m.

George Laurila will handle the hill duties today with Bob Arnold and Alex Radomuis taking over in the twin-bill under the floodlights.

Fostoria outhit the Braves, 4 to 6, but four Red Bird errors paved the way for the triumph. The victory enabled Mansfield to add to its third place lead over Tiffin, but still left the club three games behind the runner-up Lima Pandas.

The Braves forged ahead, 1 to 0, in the second frame and then added two more markers in the fifth to put the game in the ice box. Howard Beals led the Braves at the plate, getting two of the four hits secured off Keller.

Umpires and players had a battle among themselves yesterday. Olbrys, Fostoria pitcher, was ejected from the game in the fourth for disputing a decision.

Rados, who replaced Olbrys behind the plate, was hit by a foul tip in the seventh and had to be carried from the field. Alban, third baseman, finished the game behind the plate.

In the other games yesterday, Lima swamped Tiffin, 20 to 8, and league-leading Findlay topped Fremont, 8 to 3.

Wiseman Hits Par-Busting 32 To Pace Mansfield Golfers

MANSFIELD'S golf spotlight shone brightly on Carl Wiseman yesterday as he paced off Possum Run's inside nine for a par-smashing 32 to equal the low-score mark for nine holes set by Joe Mayer earlier this season.

* * *

Wiseman is the only golfer at Possum Run so far this season to match Mayer's performance.

Mayer has hit the 32 mark twice this year.

* * *

Despite his low score on the first nine, Wiseman failed to lead the field in low-scoring for the 18 holes. Taking a 39 on the second nine for a 71 total, he was bested by Carl Kushin, Nick Linster, and Joe Mayer.

Carl Kushin was top man in the 18-hole division with a 69. Following close behind were Nick Linster and Joe Mayer, both with 70's. Pete Linster equalled Wiseman's score with a 71.

* * *

Other low-scorers yesterday were Lawrence Deley and Frank Cipris, who ticked off 76's over Possum Run's 18-hole route.

* * *

Thelma Linster led women golfers at Possum Run by shooting a sparkling 80, while Harriet Roth wound up second with a 91.

Grief Comes Ahead of Glory For Southworth

By BILL WHITE
(AP Sports Writer)

SAFEST bet of the week: That Billy Southworth of the St. Louis Cardinals will get a hatful of headaches before he finds a handful of happiness in his return as a major league manager.

For Lilly, newly appointed manager of the gas-less gas house gang, is leaving a Rochester club that is running away with the International League pennant to take over the Cards whose running is being done in the wrong direction.

Perhaps he was wise to defer his arrival in St. Louis until after the week-end doings were over, for the Cards won a game the day after Ray Blades was deposed, then lapsed again with twin shellacking by the New York Giants Saturday and Sunday. Yesterday's losses by 11-9 in 11 innings and 7-4 in the nightcap left them an even 15 games away from the league-leading Cincinnati Reds and just one ahead of the last-place Boston Bees.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, making a desperate bid for the National League lead, split a doubleheader with the Reds before a near-record Cincinnati crowd of 34,909. Brooklyn won the first 9-1 but lost the afterpiece 6-2.

Meanwhile the Chicago Cubs were pounding seven Boston pitchers for 27 hits and a pair of victories 7-1 and 13-8.

Hugh Mulcahy broke a six-game losing streak for the Phillies by unfurling a seven-hitter for a 6-1 victory for the Phillies over Pittsburgh. But the Pirates bounced back to whack out 13 hits off Ike Pearson and Cy Blanton for an 11-5 win.

The American League wasn't quite as active. The best of four games was the New York Yankees' stirring 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

* * *

The Washington Senators lost a heart-breaker when they scored three runs to tie the White Sox, only to lose in the eleventh, 4-3.

* * *

In the only doubleheader, the St. Louis Browns hammered and homered the Athletics in to the league cellar. They won the first game 8-7 on a tenth-inning four bagger by Walter Judnich and the second 4-2 on homers by Roy Cullenbine and Johnny Berardino.

LIMA MAN WINS

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Jimmy Thompson of Chicopee Falls, Mass., holds the competitive course record at the Scioto Country club today with a fire-under-par 67. He scored 36-31.

* * *

He shot the amazing round in an exhibition match yesterday in which he teamed with Horton Smith against Bobby Jones and Ed Dudley.

* * *

Each carding 71's, Jones and Dudley won the match, proceeds of which went to the Red Cross. Smith shot a 72.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Thomas Paidonsis of Steubenville, O., has been placed fifth in boy's singles rankings of the United States Table Tennis association. Ranked first was Charles Tichenor of Indianapolis.

Owns Championship by Topping Sarazen 3 Up In 18-Hole Playoff.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — There was little room today for questioning Burly Lawson Little's rank as one of the great golfers of the day, Gene Sarazen's right to place in the game's hall of fame, and the 44th national open championship's rating as the most dramatic and hectic in the event's history.

The 30-year-old Little, professional at Bretton Woods, N. H., owned the open crown by virtue of a 70-72 playoff victory yesterday over the doughty Sarazen at Canterbury golf club.

* * *

Little's defeat of the bronzed veteran who twice had won the event refuted those who long had claimed that Little, winner of the American and British amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, never would reach the top as a medal play star. Sarazen won the event in 1922 and 1932.

* * *

But back of Little's playoff victory lay a Saturday which will be long remembered. It was a day climaxed by Sarazen's amazing stretch finish for a deadlock at 287 over 72 holes as a 23-year-old youth sat heartbroken in the clubhouse—himself possessor of a 287 score and a message from tournament officials that he had been disqualified for starting ahead of schedule.

The youth was Ed (Porky) Oliver of Hornell, N. Y. He had a fine one under-par 71 on his final round, thrown out as he and five other overanxious competitors were disqualified.

Little, meanwhile, was battling gamely to a fourth round 73, going one over par on the 18th hole to take what appeared to be a strangle hold on the championship. Then Sarazen started his remarkable rush.

* * *

He had birdies at numbers 11 and 13 holes to go even par and from that point in he needed par to tie.

* * *

Little had the upper hand on the playoff, however, and showed as much heart winning the crown as Sarazen had. Little went out in 34 and came home in 36 for a two-under-par 70 as Sarazen took a 37-36—73.

Harbage Wins Vandalia Shoot

West Jeffersonian Cops Ohio Singles Title.

VANDALIA — (AP) — P. O. Harbage of West Jefferson, Madison county, is the new Buckeye trapshooting singles champion.

* * *

He cracked 50 clays in shoot-off matches in the state tournament here yesterday to defeat L. H. Gamble of Troy. The two tied with a score of 199 out of 200. Each broke 25 more for another deadlock and Harbage took the crown by knocking down the additional 25 as Gamble missed one.

* * *

Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, last year's champion, turned in a 197 score.

* * *

Florence Moss of Cincinnati, who took the Class C trophy, won the Women's championship with a record of 194. The junior award was captured by Dick Shroyer of Dayton with 179.

George Peters of Springfield was elected president of the Ohio Amateur Trapshooting association, sponsors of the event, succeeding Dr. R. H. Butler of Bellefontaine.

MERCHANT GIRLS LOSE TO MOHICAN INDIANS

Mohican Indians girls' softball club handed the Mansfield Merchant Girls a 5 to 3 trouncing yesterday in a hard-fought contest at Mohican State park.

Driving across four runs in the second inning, the Mohicans held off the Mansfield team for the remainder of the tussle, except in the sixth inning when the Merchants managed to push over two runs. The Merchants got only four hits, while the Mohicans managed to connect for seven.

Hurls Two-Hit Ball In 2-1 Softball Win

McKinley Stars as Lumbers Divide Twin Bill at North Park.

Dale McKinley pitched one-hit ball to enable the Alta Lumber company softballers to edge the Ringside Nite club combine, 2 to 1, in the nightcap at North Lake park and break even in the twin bill yesterday.

* * *

Although Joe Wentz hurled a two-hitter in the opener, six Alta errors gave the Ringsiders a 6 to 3 triumph.

* * *

In the second contest, Manager Pete Shadek's Lumbers forged into a 1 to 0 advantage in the second frame and were never headed, but the losers managed to score their lone tally in the ninth.

The Ringside outfit scored three times in the first frame of the initial contest and maintained the lead to the finish. The Lumbers came in with single scores in the second, fifth and sixth frames.

Lefty Woerth, Frieh Freheit and Kinney paced the Lumbers in the first tilt. Hipp collected the Ringside's lone bingle in the nightcap—a single in the seventh.

War Refugees Tell of Fears as U. S. Liner Arrives

SLEPT IN DECK CHAIRS, KEPT LIFE BELTS ON

Steamer President Roosevelt Brings 723, Told They Travel 'At Own Risk.'

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — War refugee passengers of the liner President Roosevelt said today they had been so beset by fears on their voyage home that many of them had slept in deck chairs with life preservers beside them.

The United States rescue liner arrived last night from Galway, Ireland. She brought 723 persons who had been imperiled by the threatened German invasion of the British isles.

They had been crowded into accommodations normally designed for 450 pasengers. Most were United States citizens — wives and children of Americans with businesses in Britain, but some were British and Eire citizens.

The seven-day voyage was described as "normal but a bit overcrowded" by the ship's skipper, Capt. James E. Roberts.

But the passengers described it as a trip they would long remember.

Reports emanating from Berlin that the President Roosevelt would be sunk, allegedly presumably by the British so the blame could be placed on Germany, had kept the passengers worried all the way.

Three hours before the ship weighed anchor, all passengers were called to their lifeboat stations for a drill, a procedure that usually takes place the afternoon of the first day out.

On the first night out, 150 passengers crowded to the rails when innocent fishing trawlers were sighted off the Irish coast. The passengers were only reassured when the trawlers were identified as such.

Then, mimeographed notices were given to passengers saying that they traveled at their own risk.

When the ship hit a stretch of water known as Devil's Deep, a submarine base during the World war, 75 women passengers slept in deck chairs, their life belts at their sides, the passengers said.

The President Roosevelt, unlike blacked-out British and French liners, sailed with all lights on, and searchlights played on American flags painted on each side of the hull. A cloth American flag, a large one, whipped from the mast head and was tattered to shreds from constant flying.

The passengers included Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, wife of Maj. Roosevelt lately serving with the British army in Norway, Mrs. Robert Montgomery, wife of the movie actor, who has become a volunteer ambulance driver in France; Mrs. David Rose, wife of the British manager for Paramount Pictures; 13 Rhodes scholars forced to give up their work for an Oxford degree, and Lady Ribblesdale, mother of Vincent Astor.

ASKS FUNDS FOR S. BOULEVARDS

Wolfe Protests to State, Says New Village Entitled to Revenue for Streets.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe protested to the state today that although South Boulevards was incorporated as a village more than a year ago it has never received any state funds for street building and repairs.

In a letter to the registrar of motor vehicles, the auditor pointed out that the new village is entitled to its share of auto license and gasoline tax money for financing street improvements. Other villages in the county have received two allocations this year, he said.

The registrar explained several months ago that South Boulevards had received no funds because the state had no figures on which to base the allocation.

Since then, however, officials of the village have supplied the necessary information, Wolfe said. He estimated that the village should have received at least $400 in state money this year.

3 DRIVERS FINED

Two Enter Guilty Pleas, Third Convicted in Court.

Three drivers were fined a total of $30 when arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court today on charges of violating the traffic code.

Raymond Helcher, Galion, was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty to driving 62 miles an hour on Park avenue west Saturday.

George Hahn, 139 Rae avenue, pleaded guilty to damaging a warning sign on the highway and was fined $10. Officers said he struck a sign on the highway east of Crestline where an overpass is being constructed on a railroad.

Clarence Tucker, R. D. 2, Mansfield, charged with improperly parking his car on the highway, was convicted and fined $5. He was arrested on route 39 by state highway patrolmen.

SOROPTIMIST CLUB RECEIVES CHARTER AT SUNDAY MEETING

The recently organized Soroptimist club, Mansfield's first service club for women, received its charter at a breakfast meeting at the Westbrook Country club Sunday morning.

Miss Elsie Kay, member of the Soroptimist club of Huddlesfield, England, was the principal speaker, using as her subject "The Everchanging Tide."

Places were laid for 64 at long tables which were attractive with spring flowers in the pastel shades. Miss Vanessa Griffin, president of the Cleveland club, presided during the meeting. Invocation was given by Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church. Officers were installed by Miss Ina Bowman, of Dayton, director of the midwest region.

Officers who were recently elected are: Mrs. Mildred Perry, president; Miss Irene Figler, vice president; Mrs. Ellen Matthes, recording secretary; Mrs. Julia Kiene, corresponding secretary; Miss Eleanor Bond, treasurer.

The club is now a member of the American and the International Federations of the Soroptimist club. Guests were present from the Akron, Cleveland, Lima, Dayton and Tipp City clubs.

FORD, ENGINEERS TO INSPECT ARMY'S BEST FIGHTING PLANE

DEARBORN, Mich.—(U.P.)—Henry Ford and his engineers inspect one of the army's best fighting planes today to see if its parts are adaptable to mass production in his vast River Rouge plant.

If the ship, a Curtiss P-40 pursuit model, is found to be of a design suitable to the Ford assembly lines, the automotive genuis may inagurate a new era of airplane manufacture in the intersts of national defense. Ford has said he could build 1,000 standardized planes daily if the government did not interfere with his operations.

The government's desire to cooperate with Ford was seen in the war department's immediate offer to send one of its latest models to the Ford airport for inspection, accompanied by a technician to answer questions about it.

The Curtiss P-40 is a single-seated, all-metal monoplane, powered with an Allison liquid-cooled engine, equipped with supercharger, and reportedly is capable of 400 miles an hour. It has retractable landing gear and machine guns mounted in the wings.

If an emergency required the full production facilities of the River Rouge plant, it probably could pour out planes at a rate far greater than that estimated by Ford. Some production experts said the factory—the largest industrial unit in the world—would be able to turn 5,000 ships a day off its assembly lines once they were geared up. Its daily automobile capacity is 10,000 cars and 25,000 engines.

The Dearborn plant alone could exceed the production of airplane factories in Germany, which has been estimated as high as 10,000 per month.

Obtain $50 Loot In Presbyterian Church Burglary

Burglars last night broke into the First Presbyterian church and took an estimated $50 after smashing the office safe.

The burglary was discovered at 3:30 a. m. today by Patrolman John Steel while making his rounds. He found a side entrance door standing open.

Investigation disclosed that the lock had been broken. Officers said a crowbar was apparently used to knock the combination from the safe and the door then pried open. Nothing else in the office was disturbed.

Rev. D. N. Roller, pastor, said Sunday's church and Sunday school collections had been deposited at the bank and that the money stolen represented a petty cash fund.

CHURCH WORKERS PLAN MEETING

COUNCIL GROUP PREPARES FOR BUDGET STUDY

Finance Committee Gets Set To Complete Draft of 1941 Revenue Needs.

Faced with a July 15 deadline for filing of the budget with the county budget commission, city council's finance committee will meet with city officials, probably tomorrow night, to whip into shape the 1941 municipal budget.

A rough draft of a tentative budget for next year asking $373,785 for general operating expenses has been compiled by the administration.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said today that he hoped to get the finance committee together tomorrow night to start work on the draft.

It is expected that the tentative schedule will be subjected to extensive pruning before it goes to council for approval since the sum sought is approximately $70,000 more than was allocated for 1940 operations.

In addition to the general fund requests, the city draft will stipulate that about $86,000 will be needed for retirement and interest charges on general bonds next year. This is a reduction of about $31,000 under the 1941 payments.

Chief items that will no doubt be in for considerable reduction will be requests for operation of the police and fire departments and parks.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates has asked for $69,660 for operating the police force next year, an increase of $13,000. He is seeking eight additional patrolmen and replacement of four cruisers.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger requested a total of $71,435, an increase of $7,000 for four additional men in the fire department.

The parks commission is up $16,000, a total of $24,800 asked for expansion of park improvements in 1941.

Children's Home Kiddies to Attend Grotto's Festival

Fifty-five boys and girls from the Richland county children's home will be guests of the Baku Grotto and Order of Demolay at the celebration and carnival tonight at the showgrounds opposite the Armory.

The youngsters will be taken to the showgrounds at 6:30 p. m. and brought back to the home at 8:30 p. m. in buses provided by Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc.

In addition to getting free rides on the ferris wheel and other thrillers at the carnival, the boys and girls will be treated to candy and nuts by the Baku Grotto and DeMolay. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Downs, superintendent and matron at the children's home, will accompany the children.

Sponsored by the Grotto and DeMolay, the carnival will be at the Ashland road grounds all week. Funds will be used to buy uniforms for the DeMolay members and to help finance the organization of a DeMolay band. Howard Schuck, Grotto monarch, said.

The Trustees of Butler Township have, by unanimous resolution, determined to improve the Noble Road No. 81, in Butler Township.

Copies of plans and estimates for said improvement are on file with the Butler Township Trustees, and the County Engineer, for the inspection and examination of all persons interested therein.

The time, place and date for the hearing of claims for compensation for lands and property to be taken, or damages sustained on account thereof, is on Monday, June 24, 1940, at 8 o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time, at the office of the Butler Township Trustees at Adario

All claims must be filed in writing, on or before the above date, with the Township Trustees.

This improvement passes through the lands of Robert E. Troxel, R. H. Tucker, C. A. Schuck, Leroy and Bernice Baum, and Zell B. Paramore.

By order of the Butler Township Trustees

MELVIN YOHA, Clerk
R. F. D. No. 3, Shiloh, Ohio.

NOTICE FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that bids will be received at the office of the trustees of Madison Township, Richland County, Ohio, until the 25th day of June, 1940, at 8 o'clock P. M., for the furnishing of labor and material for the road surfacing of Walker Street with No. 46 slag applied in two courses, total thickness to be 4 inches, total width of 14 feet or total of 385 cubic yards, according to the surveys, plans, profiles, cross-sections, estimates and specifications for such improvement on file with the Richland County Engineer.

The contract will be awarded to the lowest and best bidder.

Bids to be submitted on a lump sum basis.

Attention is directed to the special statutory provisions (G G a a 17-3 et seq.) governing the prevailing rate of wages to be paid to laborers and mechanics employed on public improvements.

No bid will be considered which is for a greater sum than the estimated cost, nor unless it be accompanied by a bond or a certified check in the sum of $25.00 to guarantee that if said bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into and the performance of it properly secured.

The trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the trustees.

FRED. J. STAHLHEBER,
Township Clerk.

WE MIGHT AS WELL FACE FACTS, POPEYE. IT WOULD BE FOOLHARDY FOR US TO SAIL TO THE PLACE INDICATED ON YOUR MAP
AW, POOEY !!
YER JUS'A BUNCHA YELLER-LIVERED RATS! THEY AIN'T NOTHIN' TO BE AFRAID OF. ESCEP'IN' GHOSKS AN' EVIL SPIRIKS
WHY, EVEN EUGENE'LL TELL YA IT'S SAFE
AIN'T IT, EUGENE? G'WAN, ANSWER "YES" BY BOWING DOWN! "NO" BY REMAINING AS YA WAS
MY GORSH, HE SEZ "NO"! HE WON'T BOW DOWN AN' SAY "YES"
?
WHILE THE ARGUMENT GOES ON ABOUT SAILING TO THIS UN-KNOWN PLACE, LET'S VISIT THE FOLKS BACK HOME.

PAM—Zero Hour! By A. W. Brewerton

I'VE JUST BEEN BY THE HOSPITAL, COLONEL! TOMORROW IS THE ZERO HOUR! — THEY'RE TESTING PAM'S EYES. THEN! — THOUGHT YOU'D LIKE TO KNOW!
THANKS, GORDON! I CERTAINLY WANT TO BE AT THE HOSPITAL THEN!
6-10
WHAT IS THE HOUR? — IF — IF — IT PROVES — BAD, SHE'LL NEED LOTS OF — COMFORTING — HER FRIENDS TO — DO WHAT THEY CAN —
COLONEL — FOR HER SAKE — TO HASTEN HER RECOVERY — THEY'VE KEPT HER IGNORANT OF THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE SITUATION! DON'T YOU THINK SHE SHOULD BE SORT OF WARNED IN ADVANCE — SO AS TO SOFTEN TO SOME EXTENT THE AWFUL BLOW — IF IT COMES?
THOUGHTFUL DAVID! — BUT, WHO SHOULD TELL HER?
WHY, CLARE — IT SEEMS SILLY TO KEEP ME HERE ANY LONGER — I'M ALL RIGHT — HEADS QUIT ACHING — HARDLY SORE ANY MORE — WISH THEY'D TAKE OFF THIS BLINDFOLD! — I'M TIRED OF NOT SEEING ANYTHING!
GEE, PAM, IT'S SWELL TO SEE YOU SITTING UP! —
LONG INTO THE NIGHT, DAVID, UNABLE TO SLEEP, SAT THINKING — DREADING!
IF — THE VERDICT IS DARKNESS — AND SHE'LL LET ME MARRY HER — I'LL DEVOTE THE REST OF MY DAYS TO TRYING TO MAKE HER LIFE AS HAPPY AS POSSIBLE!
? WHAT WILL THE MORROW BRING ?

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—He Didn't Miss the Boat. By Harold Gray

HO! OUR CLEVER LAWYERS SOON WILL FREE US — WE NEED HAVE NO FEAR OF THE POLICE —
BUT THE BADGES — THEY DO NOT SEEM BONA FIDE —
AND THEY TAKE US, NOT IN THE PATROL WAGONS, BUT BY BOAT!
6-10 40
NO DOUBT WE ARE IN THE HANDS OF THE HARBOR POLICE — SOON WE SHALL LAND AT A POLICE STATION —
BUT, AXEL — LOOK! IT IS TOWARD THAT OLD TRAMP STEAMER WE ARE HEADING —
UP THE LADDER, YOU GUYS! LIVELY!
BUT I PROTEST! THIS IS MOST IRREGULAR!
UPSY-DAISY, WHISKERS! AND NONE O' YOUR BLATHER!
YOU! NICK GATT!! I HAVE BEEN TRICKED!
YEAH! SURE LOOKS THAT WAY — AND SOON!

BLONDIE—He's Old Enough For a Key, Blondie! By Chic Young

OH, MY GOODNESS··· THE BACK DOORBELL, THE FRONT DOORBELL AND THE TELEPHONE ALL RINGING AT ONCE
NO, MR SCHROEDER, DAGWOOD ISN'T HOME, YET

RING
NO, I'M SORRY. DAGWOOD ISN'T AT HOME, YET
HELLO, DEAR

THE NEBBS—No Apologies. By Sol Hess

RUDY ORDERED SOPHIE OUT OF HIS OFFICE — EMBERT HAS GONE ON A SIT-DOWN STRIKE UNTIL RUDY HUMBLES HIMSELF BY APOLOGIZING TO HER
6-10
I NEVER MET ANYONE WHOSE SPIRIT COULD SOAR AND DRAG LIKE YOURS — WHAT'S THE MATTER NOW?
THE PILL BUSINESS IS ON A STRIKE — SOPHIE WAS STICKING HER SNOOT INTO EVERYTHING I TOLD HER TO GET OUT
SHE TELLS EMBERT AND NOW HE WON'T WORK UNLESS I APOLOGIZE TO HER
MAYBE THE WOMAN IS RIGHT — MAYBE SHE HAS MORE BRAINS THAN EITHER OF YOU — I WOULDN'T DOUBT THAT EITHER —
BUT IF YOU APOLOGIZE TO HER, THERE'LL BE ANOTHER WIFE STICKING HER SNOOT IN THAT BUSINESS!
ME APOLOGIZE! THEY CAN RUB THAT WORD OUT OF THE DICTIONARY AS FAR AS I'M CONCERNED — YOU NEVER HEARD ME DO IT AND YOU HAD IT COMING A LOT OF TIMES

BRICK BRADFORD—Seeks the Diamond Doll. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

I'M O.K., BRICK — JUST KNOCKED OUT BY THE FALL, I GUESS
I'VE SENT BUCKO BACK FOR HELP — WE'LL BE OUT OF THIS JAM IN A JIFFY
DON'T STIR FROM HERE, JUNE — IT'S SURE DEATH IF YOU TUMBLE INTO THAT STREAM BELOW!
I'M GOING TO EXPLORE THIS LEDGE TO SEE WHERE IT MAY LEAD
DO BE CAREFUL — PLEASE, BRICK!
WHAT'S THAT AHEAD — LOOKS LIKE A CAVE!

MICKEY MOUSE—"— Where Wise Men Fear to Tread." By Walt Disney

DISCOURAGED BY FUTILE ATTEMPTS AT CRASHING PETE'S LAIR, A VERY FORLORN MICKEY WENDS HIS WAY BACK TO THE RANCH!

OH — IT'S MUH LI'L PARDNER! LUCKY I RECKANIZED YUH 'FORE I PULLED THUH TRIGGER!
MY GOSH! ARE YOU STILL BEIN' WILD AN' WOOLY?
IF Y' WANTA BE THE LONE RANGER, GO OUT AFTER PEG-LEG PETE! HE'S TOO MUCH FOR ME
BYGAWRSH, PARDNER, I'LL DO THET! I'LL SHORE GIT THET CAINERY VARMINT FER YUH!
Y' WILL? REMEMBER — HE'S PRETTY TOUGH!
YEAH? WELL, SO'M I! AND
LISSEN, PARDNER — I BEEN LAYIN' PLANS — I GOT SOME DEARS THEY ACK'HERALLY SUPPRIZE MUMSELF!

BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus

WELL — OUR SON SAYS THE HOUSE BURNED DOWN — HE SAYS THE TAPESTRY IN THE PARLOR GOT TOO CLOSE TO HIS CIGARETTE —
GREAT HEAVENS — ALL MY JEWELRY WAS IN THE TOP DRAWER OF MY DRESSER — DID HE SAVE IT?
I'LL CALL HIM UP AGAIN AN' SEE — I HOPE HE HASN'T FALLEN BACK TO SLEEP —
WHAT'S THAT — YOU SAY? THE JEWELRY DIDN'T BURN UP? THAT'S GOOD — THEN THEY ARE SAFE —
WHAT? A BURGLAR BROKE IN TWO DAYS BEFORE THE FIRE AND STOLE 'EM?

THE GUMPS—Break It Gently, Uncle Bim. By Gus Edson

OUR YOUNG PATIENT CONTINUES TO HOLD HIS OWN IN HIS BATTLE WITH THE GRIM REAPER — YOUTH, A STRONG CONSTITUTION AND CLEAN LIVING ARE A TOUGH COMBINATION TO BEAT —
YES, UNCLE BIM, THAT COMBINATION PLUS YOUR KIND-HEARTEDNESS! YOU'VE PROVED TO BE QUITE A TRUE FRIEND TO YOUNG MR. JONES
6-10
MIN, DEAR, I LONG AGO LEARNED THAT HAPPINESS IS A TWIN — ONE MUST GIVE IT TO OTHERS IN ORDER TO KEEP IT FOR HIMSELF —
SHAM FRIENDS ARE LIKE SHADOWS — THEY FOLLOW YOU IN THE SUNSHINE, BUT IN THE DARK THEY DISAPPEAR — ER — BY THE WAY, HAVE YOU BROKEN THE NEWS TO THE LITTLE COUNTESS YET?
NO — I HAVEN'T HAD THE COURAGE
SOME ONE OUGHT TO — BY GAD! I'LL TELL HER!!

CLOUDIER WAR NEWS FORCES DROP IN MART

Revives Nervousness as Issues Drop 1 to 3 Points; 'Free' Sterling Weakens.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Cloudier war news helped revive stock market nervousness today and leading issues dropped 1 to 3 points. Several inactives showed much wider declines.

Business news continued cheering and the lack of any real selling volume propped sentiment.

Bonds slipped, along with major commodities. "Free" sterling and the French franc weakened.

Stocks off 4 to more than 10 at the worst were Norfolk & Western, Du Pont, Union Pacific, Wright Aeronautical, Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical.

Notice was taken of the opinion of the Automobile Manufacturers association that American industry should be able to absorb billions of dollars worth of new production of defense armaments without affecting its output of useful goods required by the civilian population.

Bonds generally retreated with stocks. Commodities were irregular. "Free" sterling and the French franc weakened.

Market encouragement was found in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said both foreign and domestic demand for the hard metal was pushing steelmakers to the limit.

Mrs. Williams Urges Friends To Give "VENDOL" a Trial

Got So Much Relief from Pains in Back, Arms and Legs, Stiff Hands, and Other Troubles Due to Sluggish Kidneys and Constipation, Wants Others to Benefit, She Says.

MRS. MARTHA WILLIAMS

Mrs. Martha Williams, residing on Route 2, Belleville, O., had this to say to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store:

"I was badly constipated and my kidneys were sluggish in action, and this condition made me suffer almost daily from such pains across my back that every time I bent over, felt I couldn't straighten up and the pains in my arms and legs were almost unbearable. Many a night my sleep was broken by the aches and pains.

"I was advised to try Vendol and the Little Vendol laxative tablets, and I'm glad I took the advice, because this medicine has truly done me a wonderful amount of good.

"In only a few days after starting on Vendol I noticed my bowels moving full and easy, and this relief from constipation with the diuretic action of Vendol on my kidneys soon gave me astonishing relief from the backache and painful arms, hands and legs, and now I never lose any sleep because of these pains.

"Vendol helped me so much that I heartily urge my friends who suffer the same way to give it a trial. I know it will help them."

Reports like the above from well known and reliable people are what make Vendol so popular. If you suffer the same way, why not give this great medicine made from 12 Herbal Extracts rendered mildly Alkaline, a trial. It is like taking several different medicines all wrapped into one, at the cost of only one, and the first bottle usually gives grand relief.

Give Vendol a chance to help you too; it welcomes any test. Come to Central Drug Store, corner Main and Fourth Sts., ask for the special Vendol Representative known as the Vendol Man, and get all the facts without obligation. Most all leading druggists sell it.

French Waging Grim Fight Against Nazis

Struggle to Hold Line, Save Paris From Hard-Pressing Germans on Entire Western Front.

"In this hour, we turn our thoughts to the king-emperor," Mussolini said of King Victor Emmanuel.

"As always, the King has interpreted the soul of the fatherland."

The premier said that the king had correctly viewed the attitude of Italy as sympathetic toward Germany and that for each mile the Germans gained—a price, it was hoped, that would prove impossibly high for the success of the Nazi blitzkrieg.

It was indicated strongly that at the west end of their line the Germans were seeking to force the French to retire, in the Seine river area, from the sea to the junction of the Seine and Oise rivers, about 35 miles northwest of Paris, military experts said.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire started in Paris at 7 a. m. today (1 a. m. E.S.T.) after intermittent activity throughout yesterday and the early hours of this morning.

(It was reported that German planes had bombed the southern suburbs of Paris yesterday, but the United Press Paris bureau reported that according to the best information available there had been no bombing yesterday closer than the Oise valley, 20 miles from the capital.)

Many people had been awakened by anti-aircraft fire at 4 a. m. yesterday Batteries opened again at 8 a m., 4:50 p. m., 7 p. m., 7:30 p. m , and at 10:30 p m

During the 7 p. m. bombardment people on the outskirts of Paris, including a United Press correspondent, saw two parachutists descend. It was impossible to obtain identification of the flyers, whether they were German or French flyers coming down from a crippled plane, or were German parachute troops.

Despite frightful losses, the almost irresistible momentum of the Germans had forced the Allied line to yield and had brought the Germans to within striking distance of Gisors, 35 miles from Paris.

Military quarters described the situation as extremely serious but not desperate.

The great battle had spread as far eastward as the Argonne forest yesterday, after days of preparatory artillery bombardment.

In the Gisors region, and at Rouen and Pont de L'Arche on the Seine, to which German armored units had pushed from Forges Les Eaux, French and British airplanes swept over the entire country, blasting German tanks, armored cars and motorized columns with bombs and machine gun bullets.

On the main fronts, where German infantry sought to consolidate the positions that its tanks had reached, military experts said that the Germans were fighting almost elbow to elbow, in massed formation, and that Allied artillery and machine guns were cutting them down by thousands. "A veritable saughter," one expert called it

'Hold Fast,' Weygand Order To Grim French Defenders

(By International News Service)

PARIS—In line with General Maxime Weygand's order of the day to "hold fast," all French positions are being maintained despite redoubled German attacks along the entire front, a French military spokesman declared today.

The spokesman admitted there had been some infiltration by German tanks.

General Weygand's order said:

"The German offensive is now launched on the whole front, from the sea to Montmedy. . The order still is for each man to fight without thought of falling back, eyes fixed right ahead, in the place where the high command has placed him.

"The commander-in-chief is fully aware of the magnificent example of unflinching effort and valor that the armies engaged, as well as the air force, have shown.

"He thanks them for this.

"France asks still more.

"Officers, non-commissioned officers and men, the salvation of the country demands not only your courage but all the stubbornness, initiative and fighting spirit of which I know you are capable.

"The enemy has suffered considerable losses. Soon he will reach the end of his effort

"This is the last quarter-hour Hold fast."

Allies in Retreat Before Nazi Drive, Berlin Says

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Deeper German inroads in the drive toward Paris, with the Allies in retreat at several places, was reported today by the high command.

Hailing a new victory in Norway and steady progress in the great western front offensive, its communique declared that "great successes already have been won but bigger ones are in the making."

Informed Germans expressed belief that the drive across northern France was reaching a decisive phase and that the Nazi armies were closing in the blades of a pincers around Paris.

Norway's capitulation and the withdrawal of all Allied forces from Narvik and northern Norway was called a complete victory over "overwhelming enemy superiority."

(King Haakon and his government arrived in England today. Both British and French conceded the abandonment of hard-won Narvik, Norway's Arctic iron ore port, to gather all their resources for the critical battle in France.)

Progress "on schedule as expected and planned" was reported by the high command on a front of roughly 350 kilometers (217 miles) "moving in the direction of the lower Seine and Marne, as well as Champagne."

"All enemy counter thrusts, even where undertaken with armored cars, foundered," it said

"At several points the fight became a pursuit German flying units of all kinds supported the army's advance with strong forces along the lower Seine and in Champagne."

HELP: Britain Sends Soldiers To Aid French In Struggle

LONDON—(UP)—Great Britain has sent fresh troops to the aid of the hard-pressed French army and is sending more soon, it was announced today.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill advised Premier Paul Reynaud of France of the dispatch of the troops in a special message and promised that more would follow.

"All available means are being used to give help on land, at sea and in the air," Churchill said.

"The Royal Air Force has been continually engaged over the battlefields and within the last few days fresh British forces have been landed in France to take their place with those already engaged in the common struggle, whilst further extensive reinforcements are being rapidly organized and will shortly be available."

Churchill made his announcement at a moment when British military quarters were saying that France was in deadlier peril than at any time in the last war, with her main hope that Adolf Hitler had now thrown everything Germany had into the fight and that if France stood fast the German blitzkrieg might bog down of its own weight.

Authorized British military quarters said that the situation on the western front was obviously one of increasing difficulties.

It was admitted that on the Somme and on the Aisne the Germans had made progress and had thrown in great forces

A spokesman even emphasized a warning he had made last week of any premature optimism

Discussing the three principal points of the German attack at Rouen, Soissons and Reims, a spokesman said

"It looks as if the drive toward Rouen is the most serious of the three and the Germans have made the most progress there."

They had reached the Seine in that sector

It was said that the French were hurling down some 300 to 400 tanks which had broken through to the Seine in the Rouen area and that there was no evidence so far that the Germans had been able to back their tank infiltration with infantry a hopeful sign.

'Important Pronouncement' on European War Scheduled For This Evening.

C Kirk United States charge d affaires at Berlin

While the president was occupied with plans for his address, congress pushed ahead rapidly with his defense recommendations and the special tax bill to pay for the military expansion.

Extensive senate debate was in prospect on administration moves to trade in planes and arms to the original manufacturers so that they could be resold to Great Britain and France Attaches reported that several senators had asked for time to discuss foreign policy

Other week-end defense developments included

1. Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) said in a radio speech that "isolation is out" for the United States, but that "insulation" remains; that Americans no longer are neutrals but are "non-belligerents."

2 Senator King (D Utah) suggested that the United States and Canada lease British possession in the Caribbean for 99 years He proposed that the United States provide the money, but that Canada be made a "co-trustee" to assure treatment in accord with British interests

3 Thirty American educators lawyers writers and business men advocated in a statement that the United States declare war on Germany Among the signers were Admiral William H Standley retired, Walter Millis editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, George Watts Hill, Durham N C, industrialist, and Stringfellow Barr, president of St John's college, Annapolis, Md

4 Edwin S Smith, member of the national labor board, said in a speech that a "drive to identify American labor with a 'fifth column'" had been started by "those persons in and out of government who have vigorously opposed all forms of progressive (labor) legislation"

5 Rep Van Zandt (R, Pa) and Rep Thomas (R. N J) demanded that President Roosevelt discharge all Communists and Nazis employed by the federal government

6 Senator La Follette (Prog, Wis) announced that he was preparing legislation to tax excess profits from manufacture of war supplies Senate Republicans may support his proposal

The administration bill to raise $1 004 000 000 a year in defense taxes will come before the house tomorrow and probably will be passed this week The house ways and means committee, in approving the measure, ordered a study of excess profits taxation for consideration by the 1941 congress

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee remarked that "we are not in war yet and I see no need for a war profits tax now" Senator George (D Ga) said "there is no sense in crucifying business just because we think that somebody is going to attack us sometime in the future"

Italy Better Sprinter Than Marathon Runner in War

(By Associated Press)

Italy, by the nature of her geographical position a sources for war, is more eligible for a victorious sprin a marathon.

Her greatest value as a blitzkrieg partner of Germ bound up with the Blitzkrieg idea itself—the idea swift, paralyzing blow rather than the battle of endu

Thus, the conflict for Italy resolves itself into que of geography and potential for war

Geography:

The Italian boot dangles into the sea—"our sea Italians call it—with the Mediterranean on one side ar Adriatic on the other.

At the knee it hinges into the most mountainous s of the European continent, with frontiers on F Switzerland, Germany, Austria and Yugoslavia.

Unless Italy could smash her way into France or sufficient diversion elsewhere and provided the F were not too distracted by Germany, French mou troops and border forces in the Nice region might amp the Italian boot while the Allied Mediterranean fleet the tenuous lifelines from the Italian African empire.

The Mediterranean may be 'mare nostrum" to the ians but the French and British battlefleets have a p secure lease on it, confronted only by Italy's power air, Italy's relatively small fleet and the incipient thre an assault on the Suez canal and Gibraltar to bottle u Allies' navy

War Potential:

Nine million soldiers, by Premier Mussolini's claim said on March 30, 1938, he could muster that numb men between the ages of 18 and 55, of whom 5,00 would be first line combatants. Many of these would b ployed through the empire, however, not all on the Eur front.

Eight thousand warplanes, by authoritative estima of which 2,160 are of first line caliber.

About 1,000,000 tons of naval strength. Shortly b the war Italy's naval strength was estimated at 717,820

OF HEAVEN'S BENEDICTION++

CHAPTER XXXII

She thought, I want it to be over! I'm bored! That's the whole truth. Was it all necessary—the suffering, the loneliness, the tears? "He sits opposite me now, handsome and unhappy, and I'm just sorry for the mess he's made! I don't want drama and I'm only mildly curious as to why he's sitting here at all! I'd rather be swimming with Margot and her two young men."

A stream of reasons could explain her boredom. But there was really only one. An invisible Julian occupied still another chair. . . .

Rod said, "Brooke, I've never forgiven myself for what I did to you . . ."

She said kindly, "Does it ease your conscience to say that? It's so easy for one to say that one is sorry. I don't want to go over that now with you. Tell your conscience to stop bothering you, Rod. You are going to see Grace, aren't you?"

He smiled with slight bitterness. "Yes. I'll probably see a good deal of her."

"Jim is married. He's married to a girl quite perfect for him, and they are living in Ohio."

His eyes lighted a little. "I'd like to tell him . . ."

She sat up "You're feeling very sorry for yourself, aren't you, Rod?"

"Why shouldn't I? What a mess I've made! You, Barney, Jim, my mother. . . ."

* * *

She could not be severe when she saw tears start in his eyes He lowered his head quickly when the waiter came

Several moments later he looked up.

"Brooke, Irene is going to Reno for a divorce. I'm alone here. I've been here three days trying to get up the nerve to call you. . . ."

Knowing his pride, she knew what it had cost him to admit that. Suddenly she was frightened, feeling drawn into the inside when she had felt safely, happily detached.

"Go on, Rod . . ."

"From the beginning?"

"No. I know what happened. You were fascinated. You loved her. It wasn't just her money . . ."

He said behemently, "Money? I don't know what to do with money I didn't earn!"

She wanted to say, "Please, be fair. Don't blame her completely for the failure. Be honest Don't try to be still my hero, Rod"

* * *

Rod looked miserable. Low, in confession, he said, "I hated the life and the people out there. I—I didn't belong. It seemed such a waste of the years I put in studying and working. And Tony. . . . He and Irene are going on a trip around the world. . . ."

It had been Tony then. . . . Irene wanted her adored son more than she wanted her young husband. . .

Rod said, "Not one thing but a dozen things contributed. I don't know whose fault it is. It just shouldn't have happened. It ran its course and—and that was all. She knew it. We didn't quarrel. She simply announced that she was going to Reno. She probably knew all the time it wouldn't last."

Brooke said, out of her new wisdom, "I doubt that, Rod. Women always think that love will last forever, even a woman like Irene. . . ." If Irene wept, no one would know and only Tony, who loved her, would suspect. And only for a little would Irene hear the sad echo. . . .

"That's all," he said abruptly. "I'm going to look for a job next week."

* * *

After a moment she said, "Rod, you were cut out to go up the ladder slowly and thoroughly. Taking it in one leap was contrary to your nature. Grace would like to see you. She won't mind in the least about this except that she hates divorce. She'll even gladly go back to kitchen work again You should see her before you do anything else."

"Why don't you hate me? Why aren't you against me? Every one else is!"

Because I'm not in love with you any more, Rod. If I were, I'd be more curious as to what actually happened in California between you and Irene—with Tony in the background. Though there were others. Tony was the real issue between you Because I'm not in love with you any more. Rod But I'm sorry for you because I believe you are truly sorry. You were so glamorous to me once, so brilliant, so unfailingly right. And now, months later, you're a too-good-looking young man who wants sympathy and a pat on the back. You fed on my admiration for years and now you need it again. . . .

He said. "I'm not going to look for a job here. . . ."

"Running away?"

"I'll never live it down."

"You're being silly, Rod. After all, what did you do? You married a woman so rich that you didn't need to work." She smiled "The Puritan conscience, New England I know. But people will admire you a great deal more if you stay. You're thinking of Barney mostly, aren't you?"

"And others in the same organization. Any work I'm lucky enough to get will bring me in contact with them eventually. . . ."

* * *

She bit on her lip before she said, "I think you flatter yourself that any one cares that much Your mother cared because it separated you from her for too long a time. I cared because I thought I was going to marry you. Barney cared because he had an investment in you. You're being needlessly sensitive."

"You're right." He smiled slightly. "You usually are."

She spoke up quickly "Oh, no. Don't think it or say it to please me."

"You're looking wonderful, Brooke."

You say that like a little boy, Rod, who wants his mother to open the cookie jar. . . .

She smiled. "I find I can stand the heat very well."

"You will see me again, won't you? I haven't any one else to see."

Her stern sense of loyalty—or her soft heart?

She nodded "Yes. But you are married, you now. . . ."

"It doesn't seem like a marriage. . . ."

"We haven't touched our lunch, Rod"

* * *

They parted in the lobby and she returned to her room. Now Rod, like Tony, had become a responsibility. Odd, that money and luxury and a woman like Irene had deflated his immense ego. She thought, "I'd like to hear Irene's version But no one will, except perhaps Tony Irene will be gallant even if she is hurt.

If only she could stay on the outside! But, as she looked across the hot ugly roofs, she felt drawn into Rod's life again. She thought, "No, I won't let myself! I can be his friend when he hasn't any I can listen to him!"

No douubt he still thought she was in love with him. . . . That much of his conceit still remained And it would be fair to tell him that she was not when they met again, though, she would not say that she had ceased to be with increasing rapidity since a bright July afternoon on a Maine beach. Yes, recalling him as he sat opposite her, something remained You could not know any one so long and so intimately and feel nothing. A detached tenderness akin to pity tarried. But love dies and passion wears out. . . .

* * *

It was not until Saturday that she heard from Rod again.

It was the night of Barney's party and Julian had called that morning, his message brief, the clear concise tones of his voice familiar and beloved. No, she had not forgotten, Brooke had said. Forgotten? He should see her deflated bank account for the evening frock, a sheath of white.

Her room was in a state of wild disorder—the new frock, hurriedly opened and spilling out of the box and paper into which it had come, Margot Stevenson's exquisite little white wrap hanging crookedly on the bedpost, shoes, stockings, a glittering little bag and a box containing orchids. . .

The shrill ringing of the telephone added to the confusion. Julian, already?

"It's Rod, Brooke"

Her heart sank. Not tonight, Rod

"How are you, Rod?"

He laughed "I'm lucky. May I see you? I've news, good news. . ."

"Not tonight! "I'm not dressed and I'm going out. . . ."

"Oh, but just for a minute, please I'm just a few blocks away. . "

"You'll have to wait"

"I'll wait"

Rod, waiting now. . . .

She had meant to take infinite time to dress Instead she hurried, pinning Julian's orchids on the lapel of Margot's wrap. Hurried because she knew so well the agony of waiting. . . .

She did not know that it was raining until she stepped from the elevator into a lobby crowded with people who had rushed in to escape the downpour. Rod, his blue suit and dark hat spotted, came toward her, taking in all of her, not with the ardor of a year ago but with possession and gratitude and quick jealousy. . . .

She thought, "Once I ached to look like this for you, feeling perfectly turned out and orchids on my shoulder. . . .

Rod tried to say with good humor, "I didn't know I was cutting in on anything so important as this. . . ."

"We'll go to the lounge. It's too crowded here." If Julian called her room, she would not be there to answer. . . . Why tonight, Rod?

Only a young man and young woman, deep in serious conversation, were in the lounge. Brooke led the way to a divan in the far corner.

She said gently, "Rod, I'm sorry but I haven't much time . . ." You have friends here now, haven't you?"

"Not many. But tell me the good news. . . ."

MURDER CHARGE

Toledo Man Charged With Fatal Shooting of Giles.

TOLEDO--(AP)—A first degree murder charge was sworn out today by Detective Ralph Murphy of the monicide squad against James Craig Watson, 33, colored editor of the Toledo Voice, a weekly newspaper, accusing him of the fatal shooting of Henry Giles, jr., 21, of Newark, colored tackle on the University of Toledo football team.

Giles, shot four times Tuesday night in a fight in front of the university stadium, died last night in Toledo hospital.

Police said the shooting was the aftermath of attentions Giles had been paying to Frances Alexander, 28, colored, employed in the Toledo waterworks department.

ORDER REVEALED

Lima Works Building Four D. T. & I. Locomotives.

LIMA—(AP)—The Lima Locomotive Works yesterday announced receipt of an order for four freight locomotives from the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad. They will be the two-eight-two type.

The contract price was not disclosed.

H. W. Snyder, plant superintendent, said the four would be built along with 15 ordered recently by the New York Central railroad.

NEW RESOURCE

Germans Develop Herb Culture In Czech Territory.

PRAGUE — (AP) — Self-sufficiency in every field, coveted goal of the Reich, is being brought one step nearer to realization by intensified cultivation of medicinal plants and herbs.

Bohemia and Moravia have been found by Czech geologists to possess not only the climatic conditions, but also a qualitively high-grade soil, most favorable for such cultivation.

The Ministry of Agriculture of the Protectorate inaugurated a large program for 1940 to make the first big-scale growing of these herbs a success.

Germany will thus be able to annually save several million marks of foreign currency used to import medicinal plants

HOOVER WANTS NO MORE DIRT

Speech On Experiment Brings Him Gallons Of It.

TULSA, Okla. —(AP)— Please don't send Herbert Hoover, Jr., any more buckets full of dirt.

He recently made a speech describing a new method of searching for oil pools.

Later, an oil company research director explained the method might mean: "If you go into your back yard and dig a pint of dirt it would be possible to determine whether you have an oil pool underneath."

By the time Hoover reached his office in Pasadena, Calif., there were hundreds of containers filled with soil.

Hoover says the new method has not been perfected, still is being studied.

British golf courses are being used for rifle ranges to train volunteer civil defense guards.

CRAWL is the word for the stroke, but it's no crawling pace when Peter Fick (foreground at right) is breaking records in the sprint swims. He's several times a champion... has broken an impressive list of national and world records. His favorite distances in races are the shortest... fastest. His favorite cigarette is the slower-burning brand... Camel. "Camels are milder and cooler, for one thing," he explains. "And they have a flavor that doesn't wear out its welcome."

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX
Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel below.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

"I WANT all the mildness I can get in my smoking," says Pete Fick (on diving-board). "Camels burn slower and give me what I want—even give me extra smoking."

Yes, Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos and slower way of burning mean several important extras. Science knows slow burning preserves the delicate elements of flavor and fragrance... means freedom from the irritating qualities of excess heat. Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor. The longer you are a Camel smoker, the more you'll appreciate these extras in pleasure. And if you measure puff by puff, you'll find slow-burning Camels also give extra smoking (see right).

● In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JUNE 10, 1940.

A person whose religion interferes with his patriotism probably has quite little of either.

Out in Los Angeles detectives have been instructed to "look intelligent at all times"—probably to avoid suspicion of being detectives.

It was Chiang Kai-shek who remarked: "The more we sweat in peace, the less we bleed in war"—which is reminderful of the more familiar "a stitch in time saves nine."

Leading Up To Flag Day

DISPLAY of the flag of the United States of America during the week preceding Flag day (June 14) has been requested, together with such patriotic exercises and appropriate functions as will give widespread public expression of love of country and loyalty to the principles of American democracy.

Just as few people give thought to the air they breathe, many people are also inclined to accept, as a matter of course, the exceptional freedom they are privileged to enjoy under the American form of government.

Displaying the flag, and evidencing respect for this emblem of national unity, is no more than an expression of allegiance to the nation that is our home, either by birth or adoption.

It is unfortunate, but relatively unimportant, that adherents to at least one small religious group, feel that there is conflict between patriotism, as expressed by the common practice of "saluting the flag," and their interpretation of religious obligations.

But were it not for the religious freedom vouchsafed them by the Constitution of the nation which that flag symbolizes, their plight would be not unlike those of distressed minorities in some of the European countries, where nothing in the way of individual liberty is tolerated.

One of the serious impediments to religious progress in the world has been the persistent inclination to quibble over minor differences rather than finding a basis of agreement on fundamentals. Misunderstandings, jealousies, and even hatreds, have been associated with religious history through the ages, with occasional manifestations of fanaticism which poorly serve the great cause of attempting to link the finite with the infinite.

The children of America are at least entitled to the information and the training which will place them in position to decide for themselves, when they reach an age of understanding, in matters involving duty to God, country, community, family and self.

The principles of true Americanism do not run counter to any sincere religious beliefs, and it is under the protecting folds of Old Glory that religious liberty is assured.

Germany's Superiority Complex

WHAT Germany is thinking is shown quite clearly in German publications. The Boersenzeitung said recently, in heavy but understandable language:

"The European center of gravity is returning to its natural center in the median axis of the Continent. Such fundamental reorganization, however, can be effected only if the present order collapses, and must be coincident with a landslide that will carry with it middle-sized and small states, assign them to new places, and force them to reorientation or bury them beneath it."

A writer in The Nation, pointing out these aims, continues: "In the new Europe, according to Nazi political philosophers, the German master race will reign supreme, assigning to other peoples their rights and duties. A new collective super-national economy, based on an iron discipline and an authoritarian regime, will harness the power of inferior races for the benefit of German industry.

"Naturally the colonies of Britain and France are to be keyed into this system. And beyond that, as Otto Tolischus points out in an illuminating dispatch to the New York Times, the exponents of the German revolution are convinced that the economic weight of a consolidated Europe alone is too great for the rest of the world to ignore. And since such a Europe would dictate its own terms of economic intercourse, the rest of the world would have to conform by adopting the same methods."

It is important for Americans to study this situation and figure out how it is going to affect the New World if the Nazis win.

Rapid Plane Production

GLENN L. MARTIN, leading American airplane manufacturer, says there is plenty of production capacity in this country, and the industry is "rarin' to go." The United States can far exceed the production of Germany, he says, if our government provides a program and a regular flow of orders.

"We can be doing as much in twelve months as Germany has accomplished in the last three years," he adds. "Germany has less production capacity than we have."

He doesn't believe, though, that our airplane industry can reach the vast and steady output of the automobile industry, because the requirements for planes are "more careful and meticulous."

Even so, it looks now as if our present aviation industry, aided by the automobile industry, should be turning out warplanes in satisfactory quantity in a few months.

Serve Their Purpose Well

RETAIL distributors primarily exist to serve two groups —consumers and producers. The interest of the customer is to obtain articles whose quality he can trust, at the lowest possible price. The interest of the producer is to obtain the widest possible market for what he makes or raises, and to receive a return commensurate with the final selling price.

The overhead cost of distribution—which simply means the various in-between expenses involved in bringing goods from farm and factory to the ultimate consumer—has tended steadily downward in recent years. And the cause of that progress has been, to a very large extent, competition.

Competition in manufacturing has been responsible for providing the public with a far better quality of products at a far lower price—refrigerators, automobiles, etc. By the same token, competition in distribution, with all types of retailers thinking up ways and means to serve the public better, has been responsible for the immensely increased operating efficiency of retail business.

Now would be the time for advocates of fantastic pension plans to be earning the money to pay their share of the pensions.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders:

L. N. K., Yonkers, N. Y.—To sum up in a sentence or even in a brace of columns what Washington thinks of Thomas E. Dewey as a potenial presidential candidate is a pretty big order.

First, you must realize that Washington is predominantly Democratic; that its Republican contingent is predominantly in the column of veterans; that there is a disposition (amounting almost to tradition) for the Washington "ins"—whether Democrats or Republicans—to throw their loyalty to persons whom they have worked with; and that there is a tendency to look with contempt on men who have not served some apprenticeship in Washington.

Hence it would be unfair to toss a few paragraphs and say: That's what Washington thinks of Mr. Dewey.

The New Yorker has both friends and scorners here. Even the latter respect his record and his vote-getting ability—and there are very few of the former who do not admit his lack of experience in national and international affairs is a handicap.

* * *

T. A. D., Haverhill, Mass.—Now Mr. D., how can I go writing things about your Tercentenary? This column appears in a lot of cities and first thing you now all I'd be writing about would be these historical celebrations. But I can wish you and that Cobblers' Paradise a heap of luck. Any town that can glorify "The Barefoot Boy" and its shoe industry all in one breath deserves a bigger exposition than both the World's Fairs rolled into one.

* * *

G. B. S., Minneapolis, Minn.—There's nothing I would like better than to fill this pillar of words with items on the brighter, happier side of Washington life. There's humor here—but not lately. These are troublous times and Washington is taking it hard. Old timers say that not even during the World War did so much grimness grip the capital. We'll laugh again—we always have—and like you, I hope it's soon.

* * *

H. A. W., —Endi, Okla.—All right, my friend, some day soon I'll give you a story on Washington weather, but Washington ain't gonna like it.

* * *

Mrs. L. B. C., Fort Worth, Texas —If congress stays in session through the summer and fall, it will be (this being an election year) breaking a precedent almost as old as the "no third term." The pressure is considerable, but bills are being disposed of almost wholesale and that generally presages adjournment. Everything depends on the gravity of affairs in Europe, of course, but if Congress could adjourn almost on schedule when facing the Civil war in 1860, the legislators probably will find a way to get back home for campaigns and elections in 1940.

* * *

D. C. K., Miami, Fla.—As nearly as I can find out, you are right: President Roosevelt formerly was considered a "battleship man" in his defense policies, but even some of the top-notchers in both the army and navy air corps have revised their opinions since the Nazis started blitzkrieging. On the basis of performance in the World war, only highly imaginative students of warfare like the late Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, Hermann Goering, and a few others could see the staggering possibilities of air power.

* * *

MISS L. D. San Mateo, Calif.—Aviation authorities here tell me that Ernst Udet, the German World war ace who was with Baron Richthofen's famous "flying circus," is the man generally given credit for the "parachute troops" idea. The Soviet flying forces, however, first demonstrated their use on a large scale. The Nazis apparently kept their development of the Udet idea secret until they were ready to spring it.

Ten years ago, Udet was at the Cleveland air races, demonstrating, among other things, his trick of picking a handkerchief from the ground with the wing-tip of his plane in full flight.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, June 10, 1920.

Delegation of United Commercial Travelers motored to Sandusky to attend annual convention.

Joseph E. Roth, 46, died.

Kenneth Jarvis, freshman at Ohio State, won first honors in mathematics.

L. C. Martin was elected county school superintendent to succeed E. W. Bell, who resigned to take superintendency at Crestline.

Temperature reached 90 in hottest day of the season.

Paul Angle was home from Miami university for summer vacation.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, June 10, 1935.

Formal request was made by the city for PWA funds for $45,000 for water system expansion.

Sixty Boy Scouts of Johnny Appleseed area council, two from each troop, encamped at Alum Rocks, near Greer.

Leon R. "Pete" Strong, 61, died.

Gored in the back of the neck by an angry bull, John Lelle, 18, Millsboro road, was taken to Mansfield General hospital. His condition was reported as "not serious."

Councilman-at-large Claude M. Hunter, filed a petition of candidacy for council presidency.

A HUNDRED YEARS OF PROGRESS—

Democrats May Delay Convention

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Talk is increasing about a possible postponement of the Democratic national convention from the already late date—compared to the last few decades—of July 15 to September. The strategy of course is avowedly aimed at the European situation.

If the war should be over by September, it is argued, the Democrats might choose to nominate some one other than President Roosevelt. If it is still raging, the renomination of the president would be virtually a certainty.

* * *

AS A MATTER of fact, the situation in September—if the war should be over by that time—would be considered by most Americans to be the most serious since the eventual defeat of the South became certain in the war between the states.

A war concluded by September would of course mean an overwhelming German victory. The repercussions of this on the United States are beyond any believable predictions. Just one illustration is that this country would have to continue a feverish strengthening of its national defenses, at enormous expense. It would have to build virtually double the present navy. It would have to appropriate sums to which President Roosevelt's recent demands on congress would seem chicken feed.

In other words, IF the war should be over by September, the problems of the hour in that month would seem to urge just as strongly that there should be no "swapping horses in the middle of the stream" and all that sort of thing, as though the war were still raging. One important element of course would be changed.

There would no longer be the determination of a large group of the electorate that the man to be president for the next four years should be strongly pro-Ally—should be willing to go just as far in aiding the Allies as possible. This today is one of the great elements of Roosevelt's strength. The people KNOW that his attitude is precisely that.

But if the war were over this element would be changed to another—to the determination that the man to be president for the next four years would have to be a staunch friend of preparedness, willing to go to any lengths to stamp out fifth columns not only in the United States but throughout the Americas.

* * *

BUT how about what such a postponement would do to the Republicans? There is really meat for thought there. Here, with the G. O. P. convention almost on us, there is hardly any one with a really strong conviction as to who will be the nominee, what will be the platform, or any other definite idea.

The answer to this indecision on the part of the Republican leadership, as well as the rank and file of the party, is due in part to the war situation, but also very largely to the fact that the Republicans cannot know what they have to fight against until the president has shown whether he will take the nomination.

Lately they have been proceeding on the theory that he would take it. But it is all very well to conduct a friendly argument on any given premises; it is a very different thing if those involved in the argument know perfectly well that their whole applecart could be upset by one action of their chief opponent. And this is intensified by the fact that a lot of people supposed to be very close to the White House are still insisting that the president will not run.

If they not only have to make their nominations and write their platform without knowing who their opponent is to be or upon what particular issues he will run, but have to go through the first three months of their campaign in this state of ignorance, it is easy to appreciate how many chuckles F. D. R. must get whenever he thinks of the idea of postponing Democracy's convention.

Listen, World!

Take the Long View.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

TOUGH WORK, writing a column these days, with one's whole world changing overnight. By the time you read this, Paris may have been taken, London bombed. Life becomes one long vigil at the battle front.

But however the European conflict may swing, there's one boundary you may preserve at all hazards, and that's the Maginot Line of your own sanity. If you let your own nerves run amok during this nightmare, you'll suffer a worse Blitzkrieg than the Germans ever devised. You've go to stay cool . . . detached . . . and there's just one way to do it—TAKE THE LONG VIEW.

Don't turn Pollyanna, seeking refuge in drugging platitudes. Face reality, but face it intelligently by considering the whole picture, not merely one brutal part of it. Take your eyes off the Allies for a while and look at History. See how often men have thought as you are thinking today, that the world had come to an end. Yet it hadn't. To the contrary, it went resolutely on, over the wreckage of past patterns, to new and greater patterns; As, despite the darkness, it's going on today.

Irwin Edman (author of "Philosopher's Holiday") has written a great little book which is as wholesome medicine for what ails us as any I've found, "Candle In the Dark" (Viking Press). There's no sentimental sh-sh in Mr. Edman's copy, no ducking the dreadful Status Quo. He faces it frankly but he surveys the Past as well as the Present and advises his readers to do likewise.

No modern nation has ever loomed as large in the eyes of its world as did ancient Rome. It was inconceivable that Rome, the invincible, should fall. Yet it did, to the savage hordes from the north. And when it crashed, men felt the sky had fallen.

"The sky had not fallen," says Mr. Edman. "It never has done so; it never will. Though the Roman Empire collapsed, the elements of civilization it contained, have survived. And if a complicated and decaying system of politics, finance and privilege is now passing away, that does not mean that all the past values it has enshrined are ended or that they will not come to life again in a freer and more equitable world. The glory that was Greece continued to live in the grandeur that was Rome, and Rome endures today in our thoughts, emotions, our institutions and arts, in our laws and our languages. St. Augustine said the City of God lives on forever while empires of men pass away."

We find ourselves fleeing like desperate refugees back to the memories of those days when life was so much sweeter, simpler, safer. But we forget that it was sweet, simple and safe only for the few. Desperate misery and vicious ignorance lurked beneath that same "simplicity." But, looking back, we forget all this.

"The past is smoothed out," writes Mr. Edman. "We are given everything but the pain and death and squalor, and even when given these, at a distance, they are aureoled in sentiment as pain, death and squalor are not aureoled in the screaming actuality of the present."

The simple truth is, THE WORLD HAS NEVER BEEN SAFE FOR DECENCY. There always has been a battle raging between the allies of peace and progress and the monsters of greed and power. But if you're able to take the Long Look you'll see that Decency has steadily forged ahead, despite its countless setbacks. For Decency has Life behind it—that indomitable, divine, creative plan which no dictator on earth can ever stop.

Read that little book. Hand it to your friends. And carry in your heart this note on which it ends:

"The darkness now seems absolute. Men before us have forgotten that it hides the morning star."

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The sinister spectre of Nazi-Fascist activities in South America finally has clinched the long-delayed plan for a U. S.-Brazilian steel plant tapping the rich mineral resources of Minas-Geraes.

Jesse Jones' RFC has agreed to lend $10,000,000 to the Brazilian government, perhaps increase this figure to $17,000,000 if necessary. The Brazilian government is to match the U. S. contribution and hire the United States Steel Corporation as its agent to construct and operate the plant.

Originally U. S. Seel was to become a partner and invest some capital. But it got jittery over the international situation and backed out. After Hitler proposed to Brazil that the Skoda munitions plant be transferred there, and a Nazi victory in Europe began to look so imminent, the state department persuaded Jesse Jones to act.

Hoover vs. Landon.

BEHIND the scenes a bitter struggle is shaping up between Herbert Hoover and Alf Landon at the Philadelphia convention.

The ex-president is bent on writing into the platform an "endorsement" of his administration along the lines of the one in the Glenn Frank program committee report. Landon is not flatly opposed to this, although he considers it unnecessary and likely to prove a campaign handicap.

But he is prepared to wage a last-ditch fight for a liberal platform. He is determined to resist to the end Hoover's plans for a platform to fit his conservative views. Landon is against any blanket denunciation of the New Deal, as desired by the ex-president.

Landon will be in a powerful position to wage his battle. In addition to leading a midwestern bloc of at least 100 votes, he also will be the Kansas member on the resolutions committee.

Note—In its original form the arrangement under which Hoover will speak Tuesday night, the first session of the convention, also called for a speech by Landon. But this was dropped when it was pointed out that as a delegate he can get the floor any time.

Diplomats' 5th Column.

STATE DEPARTMENT newsmen got nowhere when they tried to question Secretary Hull on the rumored arrest of a member of the U. S. embassy in London in the British fifth column roundup. Hull was his usual kindly but evasive self. However, one of the reporters persisted.

"Mr. Secretary," he asked, "is it true that it was one of our attaches who was arrested?"

"I can't answer that," was the equally persistent reply.

"Well, can you tell us if the man arrested was an American?"

"No comment."

"Was he an Englishman?"

"No comment."

The newsman was stumped for a minute, then leaning forward he inquired innocently, "Mr. Secretary, is there anything to the story going around that there is a fifth column in the state department?"

After a moment of indecision, Hull joined in the laughter.

* * *

Newspaper Guild.

SYMPTOMATIC of the crucial struggle raging behind the scenes between trade union and left-wing elements in the CIO leadership is the bitter battle churning up the American Newspaper Guild.

This union of reporters and business-office employes is in the throes of a head-on clash between anti-Communist and fellow-traveler elements. The latter see in the guild a useful instrument to pursue "party line" tactics, while the former believe the guild should be used only for collective bargaining purposes.

The long smoldering fight flared into the open last year over the question of a new president to succeed the late Heywood Broun. The left-wing bloc, centered chiefly in New York City, tried to stampede the election of Milton Kaufman, executive vice president. The scheme was upset, however, by the Washington guild, which has long been at odds with the New York clique.

Shortly before his death, the New Yorkers had tried to strip Broun of virtually all power as guild president and to pass a set of "party line" resolutions. The capital guildsmen knew this and considered the boom for Kaufman another left-wing maneuver to seize control of the guild. So the Washingtonians roared into action.

They nominated Kenneth Crawford, then Washington correspondent of the New York Post, and launched a militant campaign to elect him. The response was so overwhelming that the left-wingers withdrew Kaufman in order to avoid a disastrous rout.

* * *

Convention Struggle.

BUT while defeated in this, they didn't quit. Quietly they began organizing for a blitz attack at the guild's annual convention in Memphis, July 8.

The decisive battle within the local units over convention delegates is now under way. Illustrative of the left-wingers' tactics is their attempt to pad membership rolls in New York. Prior to the fight, the Communist Daily Worker unit never had more than eight paid-up members. But overnight, it blossomed out with 40, many of them Communist party workers who merely write occasional articles. Even Angelo Herndon, the Negro arrested in Georgia, is now a guildsman, because of an article he wrote for the Daily Worker.

So far the "Kommies" have been licked in every test. The Seattle, Wash., unit, once a left-wing stronghold, not only elected a full ticket of anti-Communist delegates but also went on record against the re-election of a local left-wing member on the international executive board. The Memphis and Washington units did likewise.

The Washington victory was particularly significant, as most of the incumbent officers of the unit are left-wingers or fellow-travelers.

Program of the trade union forces at the convention is a complete housecleaning of all left-wing officials. Six members of the executive committee, representing Chicago, Memphis, Cleveland, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Toronto, have issued a joint call to oust the left-wing "big four"—Kaufman, Secretary-Treasurer Victor Pasche, Vice President Morris Watson, and Clyde Beals, editor of the Guild Reporter.

Fishing Trip

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE little girl, the oldest boy and I went fishing along the Clearfork. It was a lovely morning. The fields were dewy. As the sun rose higher little clouds of fog lifted above the moist gray surface of the meadow. The maples along the roadside, even without a breeze, shed their forked dual pods and whirled outward from the trunk into the road.

When we reached higher ground, ferns stood along the steep southern bank, with new frends half unrolled. Tall blackberry canes clothed the raw sandstone slope with a bower of leaves and fragrant blossoms. Giant forest trees —cedar, spruce, oak, hickory and pine—joined branched tops above the rocky graveled road.

We had taken along an old skillet, butter, lard, salt and a loaf of bread. I have learned by long experience, that hope begets faith and faith, while fishing, will keep me holding the rod much longer than common sense might dictate.

Beside an inviting pool we stopped near a grassy spot, unloosed our rods, baited our hooks with worms caught the day before, and tossed the baited hooks, lead weighted, into the water. Each one plopped as it hit the surface and shot a thin small spray into the air.

We fished until noon, with only three slight nibbles. Several times the children's bait was gone, but the thief escaped. They became impatient, tired, hungry and quarrelsome. Finally they pushed each other into the shallow water. I built a fire close to the bank so they could dry their clothes, and divided the bread and butter evenly between us. We called our failure—bad tempers, wet clothes and no fish—"just fisherman's luck" and decided to go home and call the incident closed.

The children spied a swinging rustic bridge above the stream and begged to cross it. They hurried eagerly across, their eyes upon the farther goal posts that held the cables. Then turning to come back, they slowed and watched the moving current down below. I saw them cling hard to the upper cable and hesitate dizzily.

"Look up," I shouted. "Keep looking at the sky and hold on tight."

They did so, and soberly returned to where I stood. "I felt like I was going to fall in, until you said 'Look up,'" the little boy said "Isn't it funny how looking up will steady a fellow?"

AFTERNOON SERVICE PERFORMED AT CHURCH

Miss Metta Pearl Roach, Melvin Welty Exchange Vows Saturday; Couple Will Make Home In Neighboring City.

AT 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon Miss Metta Pearl Roach and Melvin Welty stood before the altar of the First Christian church as Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger read the nuptial ceremony which united them in marriage. Spring flowers decorated the church altar, and Mrs. H. H. Clingan played the nuptial music.

Her selections included "Love Dream" by Liszt, "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, "Indian Love Call" by Victor Herbert and "Romance" by Rubenstein, in addition to the wedding marches.

The bride, 195 West Fourth street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roach, Sullivan, was attired in a street length frock of pink crepe and a matching turban. Her corsage was made of orchids. She was attended by LaVonne Roach who wore a blue and white print dress and a corsage of pink roses.

Samuel Welty was best man. Mrs. Roach was here for the wedding, and was attired in a black and white print dress, and wore a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Welty wore a tan frock and a corsage of tea roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the West Fourth street address. The couple left later for a short trip, and upon their return they will be at home at 227 East Ninth street in Ashland.

The bride attended the Savannah high school and has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Welty, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Welty, 53 Atchison avenue, attended Mansfield Senior high school, and is also employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

HAVE DANCE.

Approximately 100 couples attended the semi-formal June strut of Phi Sigma Chi fraternity Saturday night in the ball room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Ira Metcalf's orchestra furnished the music for dancing, and arrangements were in charge of M. Carl Williams.

Exchange Vows In Late May

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richard Houston, above, chose the 30th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents for their own marriage when they exchanged nuptial vows May 26. The bride is the former Miss Helen Oral Crall. Mr. and Mrs. Houston have just returned from a wedding trip, and they are now at home on Massa avenue.

Lexington Girl Weds Saturday; To Live in Chicago

Marjorie Ann Lawrence, Frederick Bates, Jr. Exchange Vows.

OF INTEREST to Mansfielders was the wedding Saturday afternoon of Miss Marjorie Ann Lawrence and Frederick Bates, jr., at 4 o'clock in the Lexington Presbyterian church. Rev. Glenn McKinley Sauder performed the ceremony before the altar of the church, which was banked with yellow and white garden flowers and lighted with white candelabra. Miss Ruth Derrenberger furnished the nuptial music.

The bride, who formerly was employed here at the H. L. Reed company, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lawrence of Lexington. Her father gave her in marriage. She wore a white lace gown with long jacket and veil of tulle, and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Mildred Lawrence of Lexington served as her sister's maid-of-honor, wearing a yellow net frock and carrying a bouquet of roses and larkspur. Mrs. Thomas L. Fenton of Chicago, another sister of the bride, was the matron-of-honor. She was attired in a gown of yellow mousseline, and her bouquet was the same as her sister's.

Mr. Bates chose his bride's brother, Robert Lawrence of Lexington, to be his best man, while the ushers were Thomas L. Fenton and Nathan Barber of Chicago, and David Snyder of Lexington. Mr. Bates is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bates of Waterloo, Ia.

Mrs. Lawrence appeared at her daughter's wedding in a navy blue sheer dress with a corsage of roses, and Mrs. Bates wore a rose corsage with her aqua crepe frock.

Following a brief reception at the church, a wedding supper was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later in the evening the couple left for a trip to Washington, D. C., and Williamsburg, Va. Mrs. Bates was attired in a white rajah costume for traveling.

The former Miss Lawrence is a graduate of Lexington high school and Ohio State university. She is now a correspondent for Time, Inc., in Chicago. Mr. Bates was graduated from Iowa State university where he was a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity. He is an engineer in the Crane company of Chicago, and he and his bride will reside at the Blackstone Mansions in that city.

Out-of-town guests who attended the ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mengert, Mrs. Harry Gump, Mrs. Clara Mengert and Miss Portia Mengert, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hugley, Somerset; Miss Betty Pickens, Canton; Misses Evelyn Gladys Dice, Meryl Hunter, Mary Ellen Hitchcock, Margaret Shaefer and Mary Shafer and Mac Howard, all of Chicago.

Young Student Gives Recital

DAVID WEIMER

David Weimer Has Recital Sunday At Leland Hotel

Marilyn Gernhardt Has Part On Student Program.

BEFORE a capacity crowd assembled last night in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, the Hall-Hazeltine studio presented David Weimer in a piano recital. Marilyn Gernhardt, soprano, assisted. The 13-year-old junior high school student opened his program with "Pastorale," by Scarlatti. He then played the "Presto," "Largo e Mesto," "Menuetto," and "Rondo" movements of "Sonata, Opus 10 No. 3," by Beethoven.

Marilyn, who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. George P. Gernhardt, sang "Il Baccio" by Arditi, and "Mansfallen-Spruchlein" by Wolf. Her second group included "Vissi D'Arte" by Puccini, and "There Are Fairies" by Lehman. For an encore she sang "Smilin' Through." She is the voice student of Thurza Hazeltine.

In his second group David played "Scotch Poem" by MacDowell, "Waltz" by Chopin, "Etincelles" by Hoskowski, and "Scherzo in E Minor" by Mendelssohn. His concluding selections were "Polonaise in C Sharp Minor" by Chopin, and "Spozolizio" by Liszt. For encores he played "C sharp Minor Prelude" by Rachmaninoff, and one of his own compositions.

David, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weimer, 268 Rowland avenue, is a student of Margaret Hall. He has been studying for the past six years, and giving public programs for the last two.

Thursday evening Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Hazeltine will present a group of their students in recital at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 8 p. m.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

On the occasion of his birthday Charles Eugene Reiter, 599 Stocking avenue, was surprised by 16 friends. The afternoon was spent socially, and refreshments were served. At the Saturday affair prizes were won by Wilma and Sonny Bonecutter, Norma Jean Stickler and Judy Ross. Mrs. Fred Boebel, grandmother of the honoree, and Mrs. Harvey Solomon, his aunt, were among the guests.

Honor Mrs. Berg At Evening Function

The birthday of Mrs. Henry Berg was celebrated Saturday night when members of the Schnitzelbank club met at the Berg home on South Foster street. The honoree was presented with gifts by the club members. Games and contests followed.

Winners were Mrs. Glenn Leonard, Mrs. Floyd Maglott, Don Leonard and Homer Seevers. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. George Arnold, 97 Hedges street, will entertain July 13.

First Shower Honors Miss Mildred Smith

The first in a series of pre-nuptial showers was held Saturday evening by Miss Elsa Ross, 299 North Adams street, and Mrs. Winston Greene honoring Miss Mildred Smith who will become the bride of Alan Jackson, June 20. Cards were the diversion of the evening.

Garden flowers and pink and white appointments provided the decorations for the affair. A shower of kitchen gifts was presented to the bride-elect. Miss Smith is the daughter of Mrs. Ove Smith, West Third street.

AND still the procession of graduates continues with more and more students receiving their degrees. . . . Today in "the day" for Robert Oberlin who is being graduated from the school of dentistry at Ohio State university. . . . His wife (the former June Betz) and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Oberlin, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Betz and their daughter, Doris, and Richard Armstrong are in Columbus for the occasion. . . . Another Mansfielder graduating, from the Ohio State dental school today, is Dean Miller, so his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rollie F. Miller, and his brother, Roland, are also in Columbus for the ceremonies. . . . Incidentally, Lucy, Dean recently was elected to Omicron Kappa Upsilon (honorary dental fraternity) at the university.

Lucky is most certainly the word for Edwin Jelliff, who is being graduated from Ohio State university today, and tomorrow will take a position with the Tappan Stove company here. . . . While in school, Ed was a member of the varsity fencing team, and received a medal for his ability. . . . His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Jelliff, and his brother, Gordon, are attending the commencement exercises. . . . By the way, Lucy, Gordon has taken a new position with the Columbus Coated Fabrics company in Columbus this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Marks have gone to Philadelphia, Pa. to attend the graduation exercises of their son, Lawrence, who will receive his B.S. degree in economics from the Wharton school of business and finance at the University of Pennsylvania this week. . . . John Davey and LeRoy Wittemire, jr. will also be graduated from Wharton this week, so Mrs. John Davey and her daughter, Joann, have gone east for the occasion, as have Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wittemire and their daughter, Mrs. Eugene Renwick. . . . Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Voegele are in Philadelphia too, as their son, Albert, is receiving the degree of doctor of medicine from the university.

* * * * *

LAST week Richard Nye was graduated from Ohio university with high honors—receiving a B.S. degree in commerce. . . . And more important still, Lucy, he was awarded a scholarship to Harvard university. . . . His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Nye, you know.

Speaking of honors, the council of alumni achievement of the Alumni association at Northwestern university is presenting 17 alumni service awards this year for the first time in the history of the school. . . . And so we're all mighty proud to know that Ruth Dunham (who teaches Latin at senior high) has been chosen to receive this award, given as an expression of the university's appreciation of loyal services. . . . The presentation will be made at Illumination services on Deering Meadow in Evanston, Ill., Friday, and of course, Ruth will be there for the occasion. . . . Although she has several short vacation trips and visits in mind, Ruth is planning to spend most of the summer at her home in Bay Village.

* * * * *

CLASSES at the National college of education in Evanston, Ill., were concluded today, and a Mansfield girl, Jean Horchler, completed her first year of study there. . . . She is going to visit now with her roommate, Ruth Motiff in Manotowat Wis. before returning home on Friday to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Horchler

* * * * *

Another visiting student is Mary Edith Ewing, who has one more year of nurses training at St. Vincent's hospital in Cleveland. . . . She is here for the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ewing, and her house guests next week-end will be Dorthea Zimmerman and Carolyn Nacy—both of Cleveland.

* * * * *

I'M SURE you know Marilyn Miller, Lucy, as she's been spending every holiday and summer here with her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Stevens since she was a little girl. She is graduating from high school in Akron this Thursday, and will arrive at Stevens' home on Friday. . . . And to make the week even busier, she will celebrate her birthday on Wednesday. . . . The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Miller, Marilyn is planning to enroll at Flora Stone Mather college next September

THESE are exciting and busy days for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cullen. . . . They left Friday to spend the week-end in New York City, and now they are in West Point, N. Y. where tomorrow Mr. Cullen's brother, Cadet A. J. Cullen will be graduated from West Point Military academy—and then on Wednesday, Lucy, he will take Evelyn Phillips of Bucyrus as his bride in a military wedding at the Trinity chapel there.

Mrs. Watson E. Stabaugh is in Cleveland to celebrate the reunion of her class in Flora Stone Mather college of Western Reserve university at Commencement on June 12. . . . Alumnae Day was an event of Saturday, and Ruth R. Seybold is also attending the reunion festivities. . . . Mrs. Sam Tracy (you recall, Lucy, that her husband formerly coached at John Simpson junior high and is now a coach in the Rockford [Ill] schools) has returned to her home in Rockford following a three weeks' vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Armstrong.

* * * * *

This is indeed a special day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tallentire, as Mr. Tallentire's cousin, Mrs. Clyde Warshaw is arriving from Tucson, Ariz. and this will be her first visit back to Ohio in 22 years. . . . She moved to Arizona with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Meeks when she was a little girl, the family's former home being near Hayesville.
